Night Bombers Blast Hanover In Heavy Raid

German Rail And Industrial Center Given Terrific Pummeling

U. S. BOMBERS HIT AT NANTES, FRANCE

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 23. — United States Flying Fortresses today blasted Nazi naval installations at Nantes, France, and the air ministry announced that British night bombers had carried out a very heavy raid on the German rail and industrial center of Hanover.

The forts battered other objectives in western France in addition to Nantes, on the Loire river 35 miles east of St. Nazaire.

The R.A.F. force which struck at Hanover was believed by coastal observers to be one of the largest ever sent out at night by the bomber command.

Saturation Assault

The air ministry described the raid as a concentrated saturation assault completed in 30 minutes. Large fires were left blazing in the city.

Oldenburg and Emden also were bombed while Intruder craft attacked airfields in Holland and northwest Germany.

The night assaults cost the R. A. F. 26 bombers and one fighter.

Headquarters of the United States Eighth Air Force said that the forts were escorted by Thunderbolts in the attack on Nantes.

The Vannes-Meucon and Kerlin-Bastard airfields in western France were among the other objectives of the American heavyweights.

Continue Assaults

Immediately upon the return of the British night bombers huge squadrons of Allied bombers and fighters set out across the English Chanel for daylight assaults on the continent.

Large formations of bombers escorted by fighters which flew out in a southwesterly direction returned to their bases in England two hours later.

The raid on Hanover, capital of

Red Army Forces Drive Towards Kiev - Smolensk

Attacks Under Way At Very Gates Of Kiev, Says Moscow Report

GERMANS MAKING DESPERATE DEFENSE

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Soviet units have reached the Dnieper river south of Kiev and the industrial city of Dniepropetrovsk now is within gun-range, the Moscow radio reported today.

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Sept. 23.—Advancing red army forces hammered without letup today at the very gates of Kiev and the approaches to Smolensk, two most important German bastions on the Russian front.

A bitter battle raged less than a dozen miles from Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, following liberation of Leskie, 13 miles to the east. Advances up to 15 miles on the Kiev front in the last 24 hours overran 180 localities.

Furious Fighting

Furious fighting was in progress to the north, where Russian seizure of Demidov, only 21 miles from the boundary of white Russia, posed a new and serious Soviet threat to Smolensk, 42 miles to the southwest.

The midnight communique also announced capture of Anapa, on the Black sea, last escape port for German forces holding the narrow Nazi bridgehead to the western Caucasus.

The Soviet high command announced more than 880 more communities liberated and at least 1,300 Germans killed during yesterday's fighting on the 900-mile Russian front.

The Germans sacrificed 2,000 men killed and huge stores of war materials destroyed and captured in a desperate attempt to stem a many-pronged Russian onslaught toward Kiev. Church steeples of the city were in full view of one Russian spearhead at Leski. To the southeast, a red army tank force burst into Pereslav, 23 miles from Kiev. Also captured were Oster, 32 miles northeast of the Nazi bas-

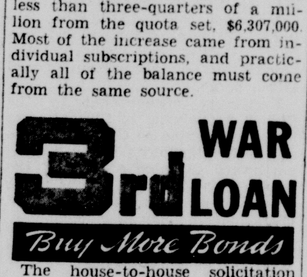
County Bond Sales Reach $5,613,718.75

Individual Purchases Give Quarter Million Boost In Past 24 Hours

MANY MORE MUST AID QUOTA DRIVE

Jumping about a quarter of a million dollars, the total for Lawrence county's Third War Loan campaign stood at $5,613,718.75 today, a little less than three-quarters of a million from the quota set, $6,307,000. Most of the increase came from individual subscriptions, and practically all of the balance must come from the same source.



The house-to-house solicitation has picked up considerably in the past three days, more workers being out and responses being better. It is possible that some homes will be missed due either to a worker not calling or to the householder being away at the time of the call. This need not deter the householder from buying a bond. Any bank in New Castle will take the subscription, the bond booths on North Mill street and Long avenue are open all day and evenings, and between these sources there should be no difficulty in securing a bond.

Jewish Day

Today is Jewish day in the bond booths of the International Institute of the Y. W. C. A. With Mrs. Eliah Kaplan and Mrs. Julius Cobb as chairmen, the booths are staffed today with women of the Jewish faith, selling bonds to aid in the work of releasing their kinfolk overseas from the persecution of the Nazis.

No return was made at noon today on the sales of Polish day which was Wednesday. Friday will be American Negro day with Mrs. Raymond Williams as chairman. Saturday will be Slovakian day with Mrs. Steven Danish as chairman.

Poltava Evacuation Hard Blow To Nazis

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

A milestone on the road to eventual annihilation of Adolf Hitler's armed might was reached today when German forces abandoned the historic Ukrainian town of Poltava to get out of the way of Soviet armies advancing steadily along the Dnieper river front.

Coincident with a devastating American Flying Fortress attack on Nazi naval installations at Nantes, France, and a Royal Air Force raid on the German industrial city of Hanover which was one of the heaviest in history, the German high command admitted evacuation of Poltava and a host of memories regarding another ill-starred invasion of Russia were thereby stirred.

Fantastic Similarity

It was at Poltava where the armies of Sweden were destroyed in the 18th century. It was there that the inability of any conqueror to subdue the vastness of Russia was first demonstrated beyond shadow of doubt. Napoleon forgot that lesson and Hitler disdained it.

There is an almost fantastic similarity between the aggression of Adolf Hitler and those of Charles

JAP BOMBERS IN TWO MORE RAIDS ON GUADALCANAL

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. — The Navy announced today that Japanese bombers had made two more raids on American installations on Guadalcanal causing "some casualties" but light damage.

The latest raids brought to five the number of enemy attacks in the area since mid-August.

Six enemy planes in the early morning of September 20 inflicted light damage but no casualties in the vicinity of the island air strip. The following morning, the Navy disclosed, from 12 to 16 Nipponese bombers came over Guadalcanal and inflicted light damage and "some casualties."

Two enemy ships were shot down by one of our fighters.

Previous single raids on Guadalcanal by Jap planes which came apparently from the Northern Solomons occurred on the night of August 13-14, August 15 and August 19.

Elinor Glyn Is Taken By Death

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Novelist Elinor Glyn died today. She was 78.

Mrs. Glyn wrote scores of novels during a highly successful literary career extending over 36 years. Her works, based on the love theme, entertained millions of women from the time her first novel, "The Visits of Elizabeth", appeared in 1900, until 1936, when she published "Romantic Adventure".

She invaded the motion picture realm in 1922 with "The Great Moment" and "Beyond the Rocks" and scored her greatest success with the film "It", starring Clara Bow. This title became a popular term for feminine sex appeal.

But she was probably best known for her book, "Three Weeks", forerunner of the modern love story, which she published in 1907. The book became known internationally in short order and was the object of both widespread praise and criticism. Its adaptation to the films made another screen hero, Rudolph Valentino, who through it became one of the idols of the silent films.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Allied forces, advancing steadily in Southern Italy, today were reported by the British radio to have captured the town of Arletta.

Drive On Japs In New Guinea Being Extended

Land, Sea And Air Attack Is Made Upon Supply Base At Finschhafen

JAPS RESIST BUT ARE DRIVEN BACK

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 23—Gen. Douglas MacArthur extended his drive against the Japs on New Guinea today in a coordinated land, sea and air assault aimed at the big enemy supply base of Finschhafen, on the Huon Gulf 60 miles northeast of captured Lae.

Allied amphibious units went ashore in force six miles north of Finschhafen under cover of shellfire from United Nations warships and bomb and machine-gun blasts from Allied aircraft.

Japs Driven Back

The Japs resisted the landing but were unable to stem the onslaught.

"In a coordinated land, sea and air movement," Gen. MacArthur's communique said, "our troops in force have landed six miles north of Finschhafen."

Seizure of Finschhafen, 70 miles across the Dampier Strait, from New Britain Island, would provide the Allies with a spring-board for a major assault against Rabaul, principal Japanese base in the Southwest Pacific on the northeast tip of New Britain.

A new victory at the other end of the pincers closing in on Rabaul from the Solomons was scored by American forces who destroyed the last remaining Jap force on the north shores of Arundel Island, south of Kolombangara Island. The success put the Yanks within artillery range of Vila, on Kolombangara, sole stronghold remaining to the Japs in the Central Solomons.

Bombings Aid

The Japs countered the final assault on Northern Arundel, and an attack which also wiped out enemy forces on nearby Sagakarasa Island, with shellfire which caused only slight casualties. In the Large Navy After War Is Demanded

Admiral King Tells Legion Convention That Huge Navy Is Needed

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 23.—Adm. Ernest J. King, the air-minded commander in chief of the United State fleet, told the closing session of the American Legion convention today that American air raids on the Marcus and Gilbert Islands marked "the shape of things to come" for the Japs.

At the same time, the admiral pleaded with the legion to demand that this country maintain a large navy after the war.

"I wish you well in your endeavors to see to it that our country shall always have the means to defend our freedom from every kind of interference," he told 1,500 cheering legionnaires.

General Clark's Fifth Army Is Driving Ahead

New Salient Is Smashed Into German Lines Guarding Naples

BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY ALSO GAINS

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 23. — American Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army today smashed a new salient into German lines guarding Naples with a drive into Acerno, five miles northeast of Montecorvino.

The British Eighth Army at the same time scored a gain of almost 10 miles by capturing Avigliano, northwest of Potenza in south-central Italy.

Continue Advances

"Both the Fifth and Eighth armies have continued to advance," said a terse communique from headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The communique also announced the occupation of Ginosa, 25 miles north and west of the naval base of Taranto, by the Eighth Army.

The Fifth Army battered at the withdrawing forces of Nazi Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring unceasingly. The Eighth Army swung its line steadily forward to draw abreast of the Fifth for the eventual all-out drive on Naples.

The Americans and British units of the Fifth Army engaged the Nazis in hard fighting on the sector north of Salerno where the Germans clung stubbornly to dominating positions in rugged terrain.

All along the Fifth Army front heavy pressure was maintained against the withdrawing enemy who used small pools of tanks and employed mines and demolitions to hamper the advance which already has carried Gen. Clark's forces forward an average of 10 to 15 miles.

Legion Demands Big Army-Navy

(International News Service)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 23.—The American Legion demanded at the closing session of its national convention today that the United States maintain an army and navy big enough after the war to be used as "an expeditionary force" to carry the war to any future enemies.

It adopted a "national defense" resolution which insisted that the United States never be caught unprepared again that it be ready to carry the fight to any enemy "and so prevent him from bringing the war to our land."

Complications that exist because of State highways through the city cause some unusual situations. The part that was not resurfaced is in far worse shape than the part that was, according to information given Pa Newc.

In spite of a shortage of scrap metal in some places, Pa Newc noticed an auto yesterday which had a steel plate in front instead of a regulation bumper. A good piece of timber would serve the purpose just as well and perhaps weigh less.

Legion Demands Immigration Be Halted After War

Demands Borders Be Closed Until Unemployment Drops Under One Million

CALIFORNIA MAN TO BE COMMANDER

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 23—The American Legion entered the final day of its 25th national convention in Omaha today after passing a resolution demanding that U. S. borders be closed to all immigrants after the war until unemployment in this country drops below the one million mark.

Before the curtain drops on the three-day meeting tonight, the 1,500 convention delegates also were expected to adopt a post-war foreign relations resolution giving its leaders for next year a mandate to keep the nation free of any single alliances with foreign powers.

Atherton To Be Named

Warren H. Atherton, Stockholm, Cal., attorney, was scheduled to be elected national commander of the war veterans for the next year.

Atherton emerged from the convention as one of the key policy makers of the Legion. The others were Roane Waring of Memphis, Tenn., retiring commander, and Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war who was named chairman of the newly-created post-war planning commission of the Legion.

The convention, as it ended, was going on the line for what the Legionnaires insisted was "real Americanism." Its post-war aims were already fairly concrete. It was steering a middle-of-the-road policy on what it would demand of the peacemakers after victory is won, leav-

Ration Book 4 Registration Is Ordered In State

Department Of Public Instruction Orders Registration In Public Schools

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Public school officials were directed today by the Department of Public Instruction to register applicants for ration book 4 between October 20 and 31.

Superintendent Francis B. Haas suggested that registrations be held within the Philadelphia and Williamsport OPA districts from October 20 to 22 and in all other counties between October 25 and 27. He said he had recommended the dates to insure the least interference with school attendance.

Haas explained that the next ration book would be distributed from school sites "under arrangements to be worked out to the mutual satisfaction of the school administrators, OPA regional administrators and district directors". Supplies will be sent by the OPA to local ration boards for distribution to schools.

The Office of Civilian Defense has asked state and local defense councils to assist local school administrators, "especially in suplying volunteer".

New Explosions And Fires Occur In Naples Harbor

(International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 23.—The once-proud Italian city of Naples was torn by new explosions and fires today.

Smoke clouds covered the ancient metropolis as the Germans continued major demolitions in the harbor area. Reconnaissance indicated that the Nazis are determined to raze the port facilities beyond repair and make the harbor utterly useless to the Allied forces.

Recent photographs disclosed at least 30 ships had been scuttled or sunk in the harbor and that practically all piers were blocked with wreckage. Fires have been extensive in this area for the past several days.

The numerous explosions added heavily to the destruction caused by earlier bombings of the city, including the industrial areas.

Italians Find Town In Ruins

Evacuated German Military Center At Eboli Is Mass Of Rubble

NAZIS ARE DRIVEN OUT BY BOMBERS

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Representing The Combined United States Press
(Distributed by International News Service)

EBOLI, Italy Sept. 23.—A few score of the 14,000 Italians who evacuated Eboli two months ago when the Germans converted it into a military center returned to find it in ruins.

Probably no other city was ever so systematically bombed by air and shelled by land and sea as Eboli. I walked through it today and found it to be a cemetery of houses—a grim tribute to the accuracy of the Allies' all-out blasting of the German positions set up in this town.

The people moved out about two months ago in response to Allied leaflets dropped from airplanes warning them what to expect if the Germans were permitted to use this vital road juncture as a military center.

Left Possessions

The Italians slipped out but without most of their possessions because the Germans would not permit them to carry more than hand luggage.

It was difficult to climb through this town of Eboli as the streets had disappeared beneath debris. I came across a Carabinieri standing guard in front of a heap of rubble. I asked him what he was guarding. He replied:

"I am guarding this bank," and he pointed to a pile of dust at his feet where I could barely make out on the twisted metal plaque the words "Bonco Di Napoli".

He said the vault which was nut in evidence still contained a large sum of money, bonds and valuables and that the director was coming tomorrow to check up.

A score of buildings perhaps were standing but they had been cut in halves like dollhouses so that their candy-colored interiors were exposed to view. Beds, chairs and tables which could be seen inside were all broken and jumbled together by concussion.

Allied troops today were feeding the Italian inhabitants who came back to Eboli with what they could spare from their rations.

At 5:55 p. m. Wednesday firemen were called to the home of Tony Toscano, 418 Division street, by an alarm from box 54, where they found the furnace was smoking. No action was taken.

LEGION DEMANDS IMMIGRATION BE HALTED AFTER WAR

ing it up to the commission headed by Johnson to map out detailed proposals later.

The latter was regarded as significant. This convention of the Legion was being watched closely by politicians throughout the nation as a possible weathervane of the way the nation is thinking of voting in the presidential elections of 1944.

The Legionnaires also struck at what they charged was coddling of Japanese internees in the country. In a resolution that was unanimously adopted, it asked that interment of the Japs be taken out of the hands of President Roosevelt's war relocation authority and be centered in the war department.

Post-War Policies

The Legion, as it wound up its sessions, was demanding the following post-war policies:

1. Maintenance of an army and navy big enough to meet all comers and potect national security.

2. Broad agreements with world powers to maintain peace, but no single alliance with any major power such as Great Britain.

3. Opposition to an international police force because such an organization would take out of America's hands direction of its own soldiers.

4. A year's furlough pay for soldiers and permanent jobs for them once they are discharged after the war ends.

5. Preservation of the American system of free enterprise and private capital.

COUNTY BOND SALES REACH $5,613,718.75

Baltimore & Ohio railroad employes at New Castle junction will hold a bond rally with members of the B. & O. Bond Crew present, Saturday morning the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company will hold a close-up meeting for their bond drive. The employes there are already over the quota but they are keeping going.

Between now and Thursday night of next week, September 30, Lawrence county must subscribe three-quarters of a million dollars if it is to reach its quota of $6,307,000 in the Third War Bond campaign. That is better than $100,000 per day if this county is to do its share. The number of individual subscriptions is away back of what it was in the second war bond campaign. Thousands of citizens in this county seem to have forgotten the necessity of money for war. Or it may be they have put off buying.

The time for putting off is past and the time for putting on is here. If the Allies are to "put it on" the Axis, the folks back home will have to take the gum band off the bankroll and buy bonds.

How about you? Have you bought any bonds in this campaign?

Alexander Hamilton set up the Coast Guard on Aug. 4, 1790, when his Tariff Act was passed, authorizing the building of six revenue cutters to insure the collection of customs.

May Consolidate State Departments

Governor Martin Considers Consolidation Of Health Welfare And Public Assistance

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Gov. Edward Martin was reported today to be considering legislation to consolidate the departments of health, welfare and public assistance under a single head. The legislation would be presented to the General Assembly in January 1945 for consideration at its biennial session.

Under the new arrangement, each unit would be in charge of an expert working under the general supervision of a single administrator. The move, if carried out, would be made "to increase efficiency and decrease costs," it was reported at the state capitol. It was understood that the chief executive may include other state agencies in the proposed consolidation.

Governor Martin suggested on January 22, shortly after his inauguration, in an address to a joint session of the house and senate, that "consideration should be given to the transfer of the work and duties of the department of public assistance to the department of welfare." In connection with this, he asked the legislators to consider the transfer of the administration of public aid to the counties. The plan fell through, however, because of strenuous opposition.

The work of the department of public assistance, which administers direct relief and various other welfare activities, has declined sharply since the war.

First In Several Nights

The assault was the first in several nights against Germany which had not been molested by night raiders since three consecutive Mosquito bomber raids were carried out against Berlin.

Prior to the official announcement that the R.A.F. was in action over the Reich the German agency DNB reported in a broadcast that "fairly strong formations of planes had come in over German territory in several waves.

The Nazis admitted bombs were dropped at several places in northwest Germany.

The Exchange Telegraph company quoted the Berlin radio as asserting that strong forces of "Anglo-American" bombers attempted to reach Berlin but that the plan was "completely frustrated."

American Martin Marauder bombers made a daylight attack on the Nazi airfield at Evreaux-Sauville, 45 miles west of Paris, before the night bombers went into action, United States Eighth Air Force headquarters announced.

The Marauders destroyed two German fighters in combat while escorting Spitfire fighters downed three other enemy craft.

American Thunderbolts also made sweeps over France, Belgium and Holland. They destroyed two fighters.

DRIVE ON JAPS IN NEW GUINEA BEING EXTENDED

course of the engagement two Jap barges were sunk by American gunfire from the shore.

The landing operation against Finschhafen was accompanied by forceful bombing assaults by Allied planes on the Jap airdromes at Cape Gloucester and Gasmata on New Britain and Allied bombers also hammered at Jap communications in Northeast New Guinea in support of the new drive.

The ground, sea and air assault was typical of the offensive pattern mapped by Gen. MacArthur and his subordinates for swift surprise blows by all arms to deal the Japs a telling blow at the most vital places.

The new landing followed seizure of the Jap base at Kaiapit, northwest of Finschhafen and northwest of Lae by Allied air-borne troops.

Forward elements of the Allied force at Kaiapit killed 120 of a group of 200 Japs in an initial clash and forced the remainder to flee, headquarters revealed.

With the landing above Finschhafen was in progress attack bombers executed 46 bombing and strafing passes against enemy communications south of Madang.

The Germans occupied Poltava during the first World War and it was in the same city that Gen. Deniken's White Guards were routed during the Russian revolution which followed. History also recalls Poltava as the scene of the destruction of the Swedish army of Charles XII by Peter The Great.

FOUR-POINT MILK PRICE PROGRAM NOW PROPOSED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Sen. John Danaher (R) Conn., proposed a four-point milk price program today to avert what he said would be a disastrous loss of production under a government subsidy plan.

At the same time, Sen. George D. Aiken (R) Vt., said that if the administration insists upon a subsidy over the almost unanimous objection of congress, it will be "toying with the health of the people" and force rationing upon them.

Danaher's proposals are:

1. A declaration by the two food administration that milk is entitled to special consideration as an indispensible item of the public's war time diet.

2. Formulation of a support price program by the War Food Administration to offset slaughter and dispersal sales of dairy herds—a factor already cutting into the national milk supply.

3. A retail price increase in certain regions where that is necessary to maintain production.

4. Purchase of feed by the Commodity Credit Corporation or some other federal agency and sale of farmers at loss, if necessary, to offset rising costs.

"The support price is necessary in those areas where feed costs have risen out of all proportion to the price farmers get for milk," Danaher said.

"In other areas, there may be an ample supply of feed at prices the farmer can meet, but the labor cost may be the source of trouble. In these areas it seems to me the retail price increase should be considered."

sector while tending to withdraw his left flank," Gen. Eisenhower's communique said.

The Eighth Army sweep has carried Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces to points 10 miles northeast of Potenza, 14 miles north of Sala Conselina and 10 miles north of Motella.

Pending resumption of major clashes, expert observers assert that the Salerno battle has produced the best synchronized Allied air and land cooperation seen in any campaign.

Light bombers and medium bombers kept up assaults on roads and enemy transports in the battle area and smashed at bridges and road junctions vital to the German defenses.

Rail communications and installations east of Formia were battered by night bombers.

Headquarters reported one Nazi airplane was downed in these operatoins while two Allied craft are missing.

Sever Roads

American Mitchell bombers hit the Grottaminarda road bridge 15 miles southeast of Benevento and severed the road southwest of Bonito. These craft also blasted the San Martino roads and bridges in the Benevento area.

Martin Marauders bombed the Mignano roads, 40 miles northwest of Naples, disabling several points along a vital Nazi supply line.

Marauders also dropped several strings of bombs on railways north and south of the bridge crossing the Volturno river south of Amorsi. One string scored direct hits on the bridge itself.

The bombers encountered only moderate anti-aircraft fire but no enemy fighters.

Royal Air Force Bostons at night bombed the crossroads and rail junction at Avellino, east of Naples and south of Benevento, and also hit the port of Torre Annunziata and its railway yards. They bombed and strafed 10 to 20 motor transports caught on the road.

South African Bostons and Baltimores dug craters into roads in the Naples-Caserta-Benevento area.

Hit Concentrations

Mitchells of the tactical air force attacked troop concentrations north of Salerno and wiped out gun positions. Anti-aircraft fire here was intense. The bombs started fires in the towns of Fisciano and Nocera.

American Warhawks scored a hit on a 2,000-ton ship and blasted the quays in an attack on the gulf of Manfredonia, 60 miles northwest of Bari on the east coast.

Invader craft dive-bombed the road junction at Nocera Pagni on the west side of the peninsula.

American coastal Mitchells battered German shipping between Bastia, Corsica, and Leghorn, Italy, scoring hits on a merchant vessel and a barge.

Resistance encountered by the Eighth Army wing to the east was almost negligible as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces pressed northward to come abreast of the American and British troops under command of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark.

Sunday Parades Are Disapproved

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—The Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania today added its disapproval to Sunday shows and parades to promote the sale of war bonds.

The association, which forwarded protests to Mayor Cornelius Scully and City Council President Thomas E. Kilgallen, joined with the Presbytery of Pittsburgh in condemning the presentation of the Hollywood Cavalcade at Forbes Field on Sunday, September 12.

Dr. R. M. Blackwood, general secretary of the organization, wrote: "Must we incur God's displeasure and also grieve the great body of Christian people in order to win a righteous war?"

Progress is said to have been made on an inter-American program to supplant Axis drug store products, now and after the war, with those manufactured in this hemisphere.

The race problem won't be solved till there are more leaders and fewer professional agitators.

tion, and the important railroad town of Zolotonosha, 75 miles to the southeast, where huge quantities of Nazi equipment were seized after a bitter engagement.

Germans Lose Heavily

The Germans lost even more heavily northwest of Smolensk, where 8,000 Nazis were slain after the Germans mounted 12 counter-attacks in a futile bid to prevent the fall of Demidov. The Soviets took 300 prisoners.

Other Russian forces swept thru the shattered Desna river Nazi defense line south of Bryansk and advanced six to 15 miles toward the Nazi bastion of Gomel, which lies between Kiev and Smolensk. Here the Russians pushed the Germans from strongly defended fortifications along the River Snov.

At the great bend of the Dnieper to the south, the Soviets captured Novoukrainka, only eight miles northeast of Zaporzhe, a big railroad center, and Russian siege guns on the outskirts of Melitopol shelled the railroad line to Crimea, escape route of huge German forces on the Crimean peninsula.

(Editor's Note: The German high command admitted abandonment of Poltava, between Kharkov and Kiev).

A Moscow radio broadcast not yet confirmed by the high command reported that advance Soviet units had reached the Dnieper river itself south of Kiev. The industrial city of Dniepropetrovsk, site of a gigantic American-built dam destroyed by the Russians at the time of the Nazi invasion, was reported within artillery range.

KEEP THAT BLUE STAR—BLUE!

Here's the point — is Joe's life worth an extra $100? Would Joe's father or mother give you that much to keep Joe's star blue? Would you pay that for your own son's life?

Price: One Extra $100 War Bond. The price of a few grenades that could clean out that Jap machine gun nest! The price of a drug that could keep Sergeant Joe's star blue — instead of it turning to gold! The price of a man's life!

Never mind the fact that it's the safest investment in this world. Never mind the fact that you are only lending the money—with guaranteed interest. Never mind the fact that you are building up a handsome nest egg for yourself after victory. That's all fine, but beside the point.

Cheap enough — if Joe were just living on your street, working in your plant, going with your daughter, in a peaceful world. But you don't see Joe these days — he's out of town. He's in some muddy foxhole, grimy and sweaty and tired — between you and your enemy — fighting with every ounce of strength he's got . . . for you!

Take that extra day's pay — the one at time and a half — and start to buy the rest of Joe's life for him! You can keep that star blue! Will you?

NAZIS BACK-TRACKING

THE RED ARMY'S advance to the Dnieper river represents the collapse of one of Hitler's most ambitious dreams. In fact, it was a twofold dream, for success in the Caucasus was to have been followed by a blow which might have crippled the United Nations and won the war for the Axis.

First of all, Hitler wanted the oil of the Caucasus. Last summer's drive, which was stopped just short of Stalingrad in the north, did succeed temporarily in bringing some of the wells into Nazi hands. Even when the Russian winter counter-attack and the summer follow-up threw back the Germans all along the 1,000-mile front, Hitler's troops continued to retain a foothold at Novorossisk. This outpost represented a continual threat to Russia, for a turn in the tide would make this a valuable spearhead for a new German drive.

If Hitler had succeeded in occupying the Caucasus a year ago, his next move would have been a pincer movement aimed at the Middle East. Until General Montgomery sent General Rommel hot footing it across Libyan sands, that was one of the Allies greatest fears. Japan was ready to cooperate by a campaign into India to complete the stupendous three-pronged assault. Achievement of this goal by the Axis—union of Axis forces in the Middle East—would have limited the United Nations to the British Isles and the Western Hemisphere.

Fortunately, the three prongs have been nipped off one by one. The German-Italian collapse in North Africa eliminated the threat of a break through Suez. A Jap attack through Burma has been forestalled, with the probability that the Allies shortly will start an offensive in that sector. And the German army in the Caucasus has lost its chief strong point.

Predictions in this swiftly-moving war are hazardous, but it does look now as if Hitler will be compelled to pull all his forces out of the Caucasus and then out of the Crimea.

At the present rate of the Red army advance in southern Russia, this latter maneuver may not be easy. The Russians are now not so many miles from the corridor through which the Germans must retreat from the Crimean Peninsula. No doubt Hitler will make determined efforts to keep that channel open, for failure to stem the Red tide will result in another catastrophe for the Nazis.

PLACING DISABLED

Worth-while postwar planning is the concerted civilian and military efforts to rehabilitate returning disabled veterans. In the last war returning veterans, disabled and otherwise, met with difficulties in re-establishing themselves in society.

The Army and Navy now have efficient placement bureaus for men being granted medical discharges. These public relations men work hand in hand with the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion in placing the returned lads. Official Washington, with the assistance of interested organizations, has organized a project within the Bureau of Education which aids disabled veterans.

The Bureau of Education not only strives to see that the returned veteran is placed where he will do the most good, but also strives to rehabilitate him. In many the disability incurred by the returning soldier or sailor is of such a nature as to preclude the possibility of his returning to his former occupation. In cases such as these the Bureau of Education provides for further education. The educational program is so constituted that a man can go to school at government expense for a period up to four years.

MAKE WAY FOR THE SECOND FRONT

The most dramatic feature of Prime Minister Churchill's enlightening address to Parliament was his emphatic declaration of a coming mass invasion of Hitler's European fortress from the west.

It was a heartening pronouncement at this time, notwithstanding previous intimations of the kind which have so recently been strengthened by the dress rehearsal in the British Channel and other obvious preparations for the indispensable assault on the enemy from this strategic quarter.

This attack on the Germans in France and the Low Countries will take place in the Allies' good time, for they are the ones who are carrying the ball. But it is a natural inference that it will not be long delayed. Churchill is not given to dating his advance notices very far ahead.

Strikingly related to this stirring announcement was Mr. Churchill's disclosure that the American and British conference with Russia will take place at an early date, with the added hope of a meeting between himself, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin before the end of this year.

Interesting and convincing as was Mr. Churchill's vigorous defense of the Allies' military strategy in Italy, it was overshadowed by his evident confidence in the successful outcome of this coming momentous meeting, so essential to victory in this war and to safeguarding world peace thereafter.

TOO BIG A BITE

The Japs, to put it elegantly, have bitten off more than they can chew. T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister at Washington, says China is getting peace proposals from Japan all the time, and they grow steadily more liberal as the Japs become more hard-pressed. Mr. Soong believes the enemy is ready to move out of China—if the latter will abandon the United Nations and join Japan in fighting the white men. Which, of course, the Chinese will not do.

So this is what comes from blind greed. The ambitious little men of Nippon are like the snake that has seized a frog too big to swallow. The frog sticks in the captor's throat, and the latter finally reaches a stage where he wants somebody to help him let go. Anybody who has seen such a situation will agree that it is very illuminating. The sober writer of these lines once solved the problem with a stick. At the first good whack on the head, the snake's mouth flew open and the frog made a leap for freedom that broke all batrachian records.

In the present case, Uncle Sam is wielding the stick—although a little hesitantly, because of other things going on behind his back. But it won't be long now until the oriental serpent disgorges his Pacific prey. And from then on, he'll be a very sick snake.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD SHOULD LIKE SCHOOL

As I have said in this column before, the child who enters school for the first time, should go hopefully and enthusiastically. So also should the older child returning to school this fall. The attitudes and learning habits of the pupil and student toward his school learning during the early days and weeks at school have more to do as a rule with his school success than they have at any other time during the entire school year.

In case your child must buy supplies or books, see that he gets them right away. Children, like adults, have a way of putting off such things, you know.

Check on your child's bedtime hours and make sure he gets sleep enough. I have prepared a chart on "Desirable hours of sleep at different ages," to be had for postage in the usual way.

Limit Going Out

See that your child is home on nights before school and is in the house after the street lights appear. So far as possible, even the high school student should limit his evenings out to Friday and Saturday nights.

Do all you can to build in your child cooperation with the school and a wholesome regard for his teachers. Let him know you expect him to abide by the rules of the school. As early as possible, get acquainted with his teachers.

Hold your child to regular and prompt attendance when ill health does not interfere. Train your younger school child to come directly home from school and the older child to take responsibility for letting you know in any case when he cannot return home at the usual time.

Home Work

If your child has no home work before the fifth or sixth grade, require him to devote half an hour to wholesome reading. This to cultivate the habit of some regular mental exercise.

As soon as your school child has home work assignments, see that he goes at this work at a regular time and place every evening before school and that no one interrupts him then. If, as often is the case, your child in the higher grades says he has no homework for tonight, require him to do some good reading for at least 40 minutes, so he may keep alive the habit of regular home study. If you suppose your child has too much home work, keep a careful record of the actual time he spends at it over a week. Then if you are still sure the assignment

GROWTH

Time was they were the babies here,
And not so very long ago,
In bibs and frocks and pretty socks
We watched them start to grow.
The months went winging on their way,
We knew when first they walked.
By us was heard the first glad word
Which they had ever talked.
They were the children of our group.
We saw them off to school,
Watched them at play from day to day
And at the swimming pool.
And those who were the little girls
Pigtailed or curly brow,
With smiling eyes, to our surprise,
Have soldier husbands now.
Infancy, childhood, youth flown by!
And this is what we say
Who've watched them pass: "Alas! Alas!
It seems like yesterday"

OMAHA, Neb.—Gen. George C. Marshall: "Now at last we are ready to carry the war to the enemy, all overseas, thank God, with a power and force that we hope will bring his conflict to an early conclusion.

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—W. M. Jeffers, president Union Pacific Railroad: "Passenger figures have soared this last year and we are unable to accommodate all the people now . . . Rationing of travel is inevitable."

WASHINGTON—Rep. Sol Bloom, (D), New York, chairman Foreign Affairs committee: "We are not committing the congress or the country to any peace plan. We are asking congress to aid in the search for such a plan.

NEW YORK.—John L. Collyer, president B. F. HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:57; sun rises tomorrow 6:48.

People are usually satisfied with the opinion of the majority, except some times in politics.

If a pup's ancestors were mongrels, you can't expect it to behave like a thoroughbred.

Now we are told that alcohol can be made out of beats. Can you beat that?

Speak well of your friend, of your enemy say nothing.

Some people think the world owes them a living even if they have to steal it.

Cowper, the poet, wrote these fine lines:

"An idler is a watch that wants both hands as useless if it goes as if it stands."

The difference between watches and men is to be measured by what they do.

This we know full well, that there are men we meet from whom we learn nothing, and there are also men who come without any intention of bringing anything to you, but, without knowing why, their presence makes you feel that you want to be a better man.

It is not that they come to you with a lesson, but you know that their manliness and nobility has a struck a salient note within you to be a better man.

"A man can't tell when a woman loves him."—Mag. article. Then why does he impose on the aging secretary who does?

Giving all races equal rank doesn't end segregation. Those of us who aren't rich can't live in swell neighborhoods.

If gland extract can affect size, feed it to Willie. We are still primitive enough to honor big fellows above little guys who are abler.

The trouble in the State Department is not lack of a foreign policy, but too many groups making policies of their own.

"Dictated but not read" is just another way of saying "I don't know whether the spelling is correct or not."

Still there are a lot of people who would rather walk than ride in a hearse, even in the front seat.

The unsophisticated man seems much like others except that he doesn't call all women sweetheart.

Busy executives will appreciate this letter of introduction addressed to Major Ramsey by Abraham Lincoln:

"My dear Sir:

The lady bearer of this says she has two sons who want work. Set them at it if possible. Wanting to work is so rare a want that it should be encouraged."

Hitler, like the Kaiser lacked a smart adviser, now he's sadder and wiser.

There never was a time in this world when one could hear the same things over and over again if we want to listen.

Perhaps you have noticed it too, but to us the umpire always seems to say "Out" with much more vehemence than he says "Safe."

Any tobacco tastes good if it's all you've got or can afford.

The disposition of a man to return to the scene of his folly is well nigh irrestible.

If you have a fellow worker who gets in your hair because he thinks he knows it all, ask him to give an approximate estimate of the length of eternity.

Radium, according to a scientist, loses half of its value in 1800 years. Hmm—apparently not a sound investment.

IRONICAL ANTITHESIS:

When a man dies, they who survive him ask what property he has left behind.

The angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.

"How much baggage should I take with me on my honeymoon?"—Nancy.

Answer: Take with you every essential to your comfort while travelling and everything that will add to your appeal to your husband. But at the same time realize that men are proverbially irritated by various and sundry pieces of small baggage. Therefore, pack as many clothes and accessories as you possibly can in a trunk (if you will be away long enough to require one), supplemented by a wardrobe suitcase to be checked, not carried. If you will not be away more than ten days or two weeks, a wardrobe suitcase plus another, smaller bag, should be sufficient. Take into consideration, also, the travelling conditions of today—shortage of railroad space, lack of porters to carry bags, priority of servicemen over civilians to travel.

So far as you can, supply your own complete equipment and do not intimate to your husband that you need anything new, especially while the honeymoon period lasts. If grandmother was opulent during her youth, she will tell you that brides in her time brought to their new homes enough apparel to last them two years, including a dozen of every article of lingerie, linen and toweling. But modern men who marry girls from families that can't afford such equipment have no respect for such a tradition which, moreover, has been largely exploded by the rapid and frequent changes in modern fashions.

Question: I have been invited to a formal tea dance given in a hotel. What kind of clothes should I wear?— Julie.

Answer: Wear a street-length silk afternoon dress with a harmonizing hat and light-colored or white gloves. Keep your hat on during the entire tea. You may remove gloves while eating or dancing.

Question: Should I send a card of thanks to a friend whom I have thanked personally for a wedding gift?—Ginny.

Answer: Even though you have personally thanked this friend you should write her a note along with your other "thank you" letters. She might feel slighted if she discovered that you had sent others such letters and had neglected her. Never send a card of thanks for anything whatsoever. Those who have been thoughtful enough to send gifts deserve a personal letter of acknowledgment. Wedding gifts should be acknowledged as soon as received. The bride should not wait until after her honeymoon to attend to this detail, as is too often done.

Axis Harassed By War Production News
Conquered People's Hopes Are Elevated
Arnold's Hand Seen In Clark Dismissal

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The Office of War Information leaves no stone unturned in seeing to it that the story of United States war production girdles the globe—fraying Axis nerves and buoying the hopes of conquered peoples everywhere.

In sharp contrast to the secrecy which shrouds Axis military output, the amazing American record is broadcast week after week in dozens of foreign tongues over the 14 short-wave transmitters in this country, the BBC and Radio Algiers.

WPB's production summaries are reported as carefully to the inhabitants of occupied Europe as they are to United States citizens.

More recently a new note has been injected into the overseas newscasts—a note that reflects the approach of victory and the mounting consideration being given to post-war plans by statesmen the world over.

OWI wisely recognizes that Europe by now must be thoroughly saturated with an awareness of United States production might.

Hence, a tapering off in bare production figures and a shift to news that has to do with post-war output.

Typical of the overseas broadcasts are the weekly reports of Blake Ozias, aide to WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and a former resident of France. Ozias has a fluent command of French and for 26 weeks has driven home to the people of that country the tale of American production.

Ozias has the distinction, incidentally, of being the real-life member of the OWI triumvirate which included the fictitious characters John Durfee, "American columnist," and Wallace Herrick, "United States military analyst." All three participated in OWI overseas reporting.

Ozias' recent news summaries have dealt with the production of agricultural, machinery which is destined to help the return of prosperity to the European countries devastated by the Nazis.

The reconstruction of liberated regions became the keynote of OWI broadcasts following WPB's allocation of additional steel for farm implements. The work of the Office for Relief and Rehabilitation, headed by former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, was stressed, particularly as regards Tunisia.

European listeners heard these words:

"In the United States today plans are being made to put agricultural industries in the liberated countries on their feet . . . As soon as possible, after victory comes, the farms of liberated Europe will have thousands of tractors, ploughs, harrows, reapers."

These words must have had a pleasant ring to the prosperity-starved countries overrun by the Boches.

Friends of Thurman Arnold see his fine hand in the recent justice department shake-up that saw Tom Clark shifted out of Arnold's old post as trust-buster after only four months' trial and Wendell Berge slipped into the anti-monopoly hot spot.

Arnold keeps a close tab on the war-throttled monopoly fight from his perch on the federal bench. He is already getting fidgety from lack of action and is said to be anxiously awaiting the day when restrictions are removed so that he can take up the crusade against Industrial Giantism where he left off.

In the meantime, Arnold does not want the government's anti-trust machinery to get rusty.

Selective Service headquarters deny having any hand in it, but at least one local draft board is taking an extra-curricular peek into its pool of woman-power.

A Washington mother of three recently received from her husband's draft board, No. 259, at Flushing, N. Y., a formal questionnaire similar to the one the head of the family had filled out shortly after registering several years ago. Near the blank for the name of the registrant, the words "wife of" had been typed.

Although not required to do so by law, the couple filled out the blank and returned it in the specified five days, furnishing the board with complete data on the woman's previous working experience and qualifications for a possible later call to war duty.

The Austin-Wadsworth national draft bill, which has yet to win administration approval, is still languishing in congress.

SAFE MILK

Sometimes we hear people say that they would rather buy raw milk from a farmer whom they know than buy pasteurized milk at the store.

Pasteurized milk is safer than raw milk. There is always some risk in using raw milk.

If milk is heated to 145 degrees and kept there for half an hour, it is safe. This process is called "Pattuerization."

It kills the dangerous germs but does not sterilize the milk.

It will sour and get thick just about like raw milk.

Boiling the milk for a few minuates makes it safe too. It changes the taste.

Some people use mare's milk, or sheep's milk, or goat's milk. They are just about the same as cow's milk.

Americans have found out that cow's milk is the best in the long run.

The hen has many human traits. When she has achieved an egg, she can't keep her mouth shut.

The World and the Mud Puddles

DO THE PEOPLE RULE?

Congressman Joe Martin sounded an important note of warning when he pointed out that the American people apparently are being committed to a course of action in international affairs the nature of which is being kept secret.

Mr. Martin properly conceded that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and heads of other governments have every right to confer on military matters in secrecy. But, he went on, we daily are hearing of secret meetings, secret agreements on policies to be adopted toward other countries after the war and commitments that already have been made.

This is, of course, directly contrary to our whole system and theory of government. No foreign trade treaty can constitutionally become binding upon the United States until it has been ratified by the Congress. However, we have seen this government transformed in the last few years to a government by executive decree to an increasing extent. In the last two years these executive decrees have equalled in number the laws passed by Congress. That certainly does not confirm to the people's understanding of the American way.

The purpose of Congressional ratification of foreign treaties before they become binding is that in the discussion that precedes the Congressional vote, the people have an opportunity to understand to what they are being committed. They have the right to express themselves through their representatives. But under the system that gradually is supplanting the American way of free and open discussion, we see, instead, the head of this government secretly conferring, secretly planning, secretly committing this country not to war policies but to a whole gamut of post-war planning for all the other nations.

It is the time for the people through the Congress, to begin to take a hand in this situation before we eventually wake up and find our traditional ideas of the American way but a memory.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

For many years Gotolic Aszonovich, 87, and Joseph Pelochofsky, 72, were good friends.

Today they are bitter enemies. One may have a fractured skull, the other has bruises and scratches on his face.

Both are under arrest and will have to stand trial for felonious assault.

And it all happened over practically nothing at all.

Aszonovich went to Coney Island and soaked his sore feet in the sea water. On his return home he took a hot bath and left some sand in the tub.

Pelochofsky, who took a bath a little later, was annoyed by the sand and berated his friend.

An argument followed, Aszonovich scratched the other's face and beat him with a board. Pelochofsky retaliated by hitting Aszonovich over the head with a lead pipe.

So there you are—all over a bit of sand.

The reason I am telling you this story is because so many friendships have been broken up by such little things.

Sometimes it's just a bit of gossip that comes back exaggerated and distorted.

Sometimes it's a careless remark dropped without bad intent.

Sometimes it's a foolish flirtation, trespassing on the rules of hospitality, sometimes a just imaginary slight.

I always hate to see friendships go broke.

They are so hard to acquire, so precious to have, so painful to lose.

I think false pride has a lot to do with it, just like false pride has caused so much trouble in business and even among nations.

If we suspect a friend, why not come out and talk it over decently and frankly.

Why carry grudges and that grow like cancers, and why be too proud to admit an error if one has been committed?

What good is friendship unless it is sincere? What greater joy is there than to have someone in whom you can confide, with whom you can share your joys and sorrows, on whom you can lean when you need consolation and to whom you are willing to give whatever he needs whenever he needs it?

A bit of sand—and down goes a castle that it has taken years to build!

Remember your Shakespeare?

"Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried.
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

FATHER, SON PRISONERS IN SAME CAMP

Old Stuff For Dad, Who Was Held By Germans Before

By HOWARD BERRY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Strange are the tricks of fate, but none can hardly be stranger than those which befell two British naval seamen, Robert and George Moorcroft.

Robert and George are father and son, and today they are prisoners of war in a German camp.

George Moorcroft was captured during his first trip to sea, when his ship was torpedoed off Norway nearly three and a half years ago.

Mother Not Worrying

But here let George's mother, Mrs. Moorcroft, continue the story.

"I'm not worrying," said Mrs. Moorcroft, "for George's Dad is looking after him."

And no better minder and guide could be wished for, because Dad, 54-year-old Robert Moorcroft, is probably the world's champion prisoner of war.

"Dad's an 'old sweat'," said Mrs. Moorcroft continuing her story. "He should be. He was a prisoner in Germany for three and a half years during the last war and they never got the best of him."

Prisoners in Same Camp

"He came home bright and chirpy. Now George and his father have been prisoners in the same camp for three and a half years. What Dad doesn't know about a prison camp isn't worth knowing."

"When George decided to leave his Liverpool home to go to sea, it was to join his father as a stoker on the same ship.

"What's good enough for the old man," said George, "is good enough for me." And time has proved how right he was.

"Dad is the oldest man in the camp," said his wife, "but he has some of the young 'uns licked. He won the 100-yard race at a sports meeting recently.

Nearly 'Owns' the Camp

"George was so bucked that he gave him 19 Reichmarks he had earned working on the roads. Then George won the camp boxing competition, and Dad was so pleased that he gave him the money back, and another six marks he'd scrounged from somewhere.

"Dad's got his head screwed on the right way. He learned the German lingo when he was over there in the last war. Now he's batman to a doctor.

"He told George he'd have to work his way up like he did. He says he's been told that if he becomes a prisoner of war in three wars in succession the camp becomes his own property.

Only one things casts a shadow over this courageous family. Neither Dad nor George has seen little Doreen. They never will.

"She was born a month after they sailed," said Mrs. Moorcroft. "She was killed in a blitz when only seven months old."

PLAN CATALOGUE OF WORK PROJECTS

Seek To Eliminate Duplication Of After War Projects In Pennsylvania

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—A four-point program to catalogue proposed public works projects and eliminate duplicate post-war construction was ordered today by the state planning board.

Secretary of Commerce Floyd Chalfant, board chairman, said the inventory would be launched January 1 for a six-year period and would embrace public service projects as well as construction.

He stated that the objectives of the board's study were (1) to assist officials of the state's political sub-divisions in drafting long-range public improvement programs "based upon actual need" (2) to assemble a state-wide estimate of the types and costs of the proposed projects (3) to analyze the overall program to ascertain if the component parts were financially feasible, evaluate the urgency of the project, discover the geographical distribution of the work and determine the extent that labor resources will be tapped. (4) To keep a constant check on the programs to assure continuous operation.

First Organized Move

The board's program was the first organized move for a planned post-war blueprint since Gov. Edward Martin proposed a nebulous improvement program to the legislature covering reforestation, flood control, highways, the construction of new buildings, and steady employment, especially for hard and soft coal miners. The 10-member post-war planning commission established by the legislature with a $200,000 appropriation has not been appointed yet by the governor.

Chalfant said the board hoped that the inventory would accelerate "advance planning and programming" by all state and local governmental agencies.

"To this end," he added, "The state planning board will lend every possible aid in preparing programs for the future and in improving present planning procedures For this purpose, field representatives of the state planning board will be available. It is intended that the scope of this listing operation shall cover the whole field of public works and public services and shall not be restricted to construction projects."

Chalfant said the board had authorized cooperation with the state aeronautics commission to develop a post-war airport expansion program and pledged aid to the department of forests and waters for a study of Pennsylvania's forest resources.

SILENT COPS

McKEESPORT, Pa.—Cordial conversations with lovely damsels while touring the daily "beat" is strictly out of bounds for McKeesport policemen. The manual of rules and regulations for the guidance of the city's force, orders that henceforth "officers will not be allowed to stand and converse with females in the street, unless on matters pertaining to duty."

From now on McKeesport policemen may not be blind when it comes to women, but they certainly will be deaf and dumb.

Maternity Care Fund Approved

House Committee Approves $18,620,000 Fund For Aid To Service Men's Wives

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23— The house appropriations committee approved a $18,620,000 fund today for infant and maternity care of enlisted men's wives. Estimates of the number of babies to be born to service men this year have more than doubled.

The committee asked immediate consideration of the emergency appropriation to replenish funds which in some states already are exhausted. The $18,620,000 would provide for 220,000 cases during the current fiscal year.

"When the program was first initiated, it was estimated that the total number of pregnancies in the fiscal year would be 300,000 and that 25 percent of the wives would apply for the care," the committee report said.

Large Increase

"Later experience has shown that 50 percent are applying and the number of pregnancies is estimated at 645,000. It is very likely that still further experience will indicate that a higher percentage will seek the care and the number of pregnancies may be varied, depending upon the number of fathers and the rapidity of shipment of men away from home stations."

The average cost per case for the entire nation is $84.50, the committee reported.

The committee, in sending the bill to the house, eliminated provision that the care should extend to dependents of enlisted men in the first three grades, but recommended that all grades of enlisted men be covered by the bill if commitments had been made in their cases prior to October 1, 1943.

A man five feet 2 inches tall, 25 years of age or over, could weigh anywhere from 116 to 142 pounds depending on whether he has a small, medium or large frame.

Orders Probe Of Slot Machines

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22.—Allegheny County Detective Chief Joseph M. Stack ordered an immediate investigation of slot machine operations in Carnegie after District Attorney Russell H. Adams received a letter protesting that the "borough is infested with gambling devices".

Stack said that his men will probe the area and promised that if "any violations are found, we'll confiscate the machines and get the courts to order them destroyed."

The writer of the letter, whose identity Adams refused to divulge, charged that "almost every saloon, cafe, restaurant and dining car in Carnegie has a slot machine."

'This Is The Army' Held Extra Week

Picture Breaks Attendance Records, Starts Second Week At Victor Tomorrow

WAR BOND SALES TOTAL $120,000

Because "This Is The Army" is breaking all records for movie attendance in New Castle, as this Warner Brothers Army Emergency Fund production is doing throughout the United States wherever it is shown, the picture is being held over for an extra week at the Victor theater. It will start its second week here tomorrow.

Not for years has a movie aroused the single-hearted enthusiasm of audiences the way "This Is The Army" is doing. Question of the week among aquaintances has been, "Have you seen 'This Is The Army' yet?"

Attendance at "This Is The Army" has broken the existing record of the Victor theatre, David Victor, manager, said today.

Aids Army Relief

Proceeds of the picture to the extent of fifty percent of its box office gross go to the Army Emergency fund and Warner Brothers estimates that the fund will benefit to the extent of $25,000,000.

In connection with the showing of "This Is The Army" during the past week and other motion pictures shown at the Victor theater during the month of September since the start of the Third War Loan drive, war bond sales to date for the month at the Victor total $120,000.

Fast-Moving

"This Is The Army" is a fast-moving musical comedy epic in technicolor that is grand entertainment from the moment it opens when it opens with Kate Smith singing "God Bless America" to the curtain scene.

"I threw that tune out of 'Yip, Yip, Yaphank' twenty years ago," says George Murphy as "Jerry Jones," and the stage is set for the story of how Irving Berlin came to write a surefire army show for World war II as he had done for World war I.

The result is a motion picture that has vim, verve, humor, romance, color, settings, choruses, and most of all, music.

Many 'Big Shots' At Headquarters

Epidemic Of Brass And Braid At Gen. Eisenhower's Post

CENSORS HOLDUP BIG NEWS STORIES

By CLARK LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER AT AN ADVANCED ALLIED COMMAND POST, Sept. 22—(Delayed)—For the past ten days we have been up to our necks in big shots.

There has been so much brass and braid, rank and title around headquarters that any officer with only one star on his shirt collar looked practically naked.

All of the principal actors in the thrilling Italian drama of the past month have been in this vicinity and every one of them had a marvelous story to tell. They have been duly told and recorded, but you haven't read them in your papers yet and probably won't until after the war. Because most of the information is potential dynamite, and the army does not want to risk touching off any unnecessary explosives.

When Dave Brown, representing the British press, and I, did get a story, something almost invariably prevented it from reaching its destination. If we put it aboard a plane, the pilot would forget to put it off or the plane would land at some other airfield.

If we used the wireless, the current would be turned off or a sudden storm would blow up or the censors would hold the story so long that it would be announced in London, Washington or somewhere else first.

But at least we have met some interesting people.

Negotiate Armistice

One of the interesting characters who will do down in history is Brig. Gen. Guiseppe Castellano, who negotiated and signed the armistice under which Italy got out of the war. Castellano is a short, swarthy Sicilian in his late forties.

At the request of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Castellano granted Brown and myself an interview. He kept us waiting for 30 minutes. He told us we could have half an hour, but after five minutes we could see that the time would be wasted. Castellano did not want to talk.

What we wanted was the true story of Mussolini's downfall for immediate publication and, for later use, the inside information about the Italians' part in the armistice negotiations.

I had noticed Castellano on the eve of our Salerno landings, when he was seated in the headquarters messs nibbling tentatively at hamburgers.

With him was a youngish, handsome American brigadier-general. He shook hands and said "don't you remember me?"

I didn't.

"I'm Maxwell Taylor," he said, "and you almost rented my house in Tokyo five years ago in April."

Later Taylor told me his story—of his daring trip into Rome under the noses of the Germans together with Col. William Tudor Gardiner.

Taylor did not know until I told him that Gardiner was a former governor of Maine.

Jack Benny came to this area, not to headquarters, but to perform before 10,000 soldiers at an airfield where, incidentally, Bruce Cabot is stationed. Benny and Larry Adler have covered central Africa and the middle east in their four-months trip, playing at least one town a day.

Benny was anxious to play in Italy, possibly to get one up on Bob Hope, who was the first entertainer to go to Sicily.

French Forces Make Daring Attack On Nazis

(International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 32. — A French communique reported today a daring attack carried out by French forces in the region of Solenzara, on the island of Corsica, in which the Nazis suffered heavy losses in men and material.

The communique, issued at General Henri Honore Giraud's headquarters, also declared that Allied naval and air forces are maintaining a "very effective blockade of the eastern coast" of Corsica.

At the same time, the retreating Nazis were being pressed into a pocket in the northwest corner of the island.

The sea and air action was designed to prevent an effective evacuation from Corsica to the Italian or French mainland.

The communique said:

Yesterday our light detachments increased pressure on the enemy who is retreating toward northeastern Corsica.

"A daring attack carried out in the region of Solenzara, resulted in heavy losses to the enemy and destruction of large quantities of material.

"Allied navies and air forces are maintaining a very effective blockade of the eastern coast of the island, making it difficult for the enemy to evacuate material and personnel, either by sea or air."

War Brings Prosperity To Hillfolk In The Ozarks

By KEN MILLER
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 23.—The hillfolk of the Ozarks are "in the money." High prices for produce and war work are the answers. And they dote on auctions.

One wash boiler, patched and badly bent—$18.

One lawn mower, 10 years old, worn and rusted—$19.

Sounds fantastic, but its merely the log of the clerk at today's auction—for the hillfolk of the Ozarks have cash to spend.

A dozen eggs or a gallon jug of "old squirrel" have ceased to be the favorite means of barter in the Ozarks. Today it takes good old hard cash—the long green—that talks on the market, whether it be in the general merchandise store of the town, or in the front yard of the farmer's hillside home.

They "Go To Town"

With hard money jingling in their pockets, they go to town every Saturday. They buy clothes, groceries, household needs, and then look for a bit of entertainment—picture show, a dish of ice cream, or both.

But their chief entertainment is the auction sale.

Where the auction was rare entertainment only a few months ago, today it is a daily feature. Some village residents are leaving to join defense industries. They put their household goods on the auction market. The auctioneer cashes in.

Six days of the week he works—two sales a day—a sale in the morning—and then he wends his way across the hills to another village or another farm, in a bright and shiny automobile, for more business.

Sales Like Reunions

From all over the countryside, friends and relatives come to the auction. Their wagons and their cars are heaped with old and battered chairs, wash tubs, wornout rugs and a score of other articles. These are tossed on the heap to be sold to the highest bidder.

At one such sale the household goods of an aged old maid school teacher were being sold. She had died several months before, and relatives decided to sell her possessions at auction.

The prices the auctioneers managed to pull out of the Ozark folk might have startled Park avenue.

The old maid had passed on at 86. Three lawn mowers were found on the front porch of her house. They were all worn out and far beyond the possibilities of use by an 86-year-old woman. The wheels were broken, rollers rotted away and blades badly knicked. Yet $19 was paid for one of the mowers, at least three times the original new price. None of the dilapidated machines sold for less than $8.

Ready To Buy Anything

Even the truth can't daunt the spirited bidding of these hillfolk when they have money jingling and jangling in their pockets.

An autcioneer picked up a badly dented and rusted wash boiler and started his chant extolling the virtues of the merchandise.

"Here you are folks—here you are—gather around close now, because here's a mighty fine wash boiler. I'll guarantee you can see through it. Only two holes in the bottom—and how much am I offered to start it?"

On and on he chanted, and finally the bidding stopped. Nineteen dollars was the price the wash boiler brought.

Plates, cups, saucers, any of which could be purchased at the five-and-ten for a dime, sold for prices ranging from 25 to 50 cents.

Many Souvenir Hunters

Souvenir hunters are plentiful at every sale. Their departed friend and neighbor had many little possessions which they constantly strive to take home, not for its intrinsic value, but to add to the shelf of the corner china closet.

The sales, however, are causing considerable inconvenience to the farmer and merchant.

Typical of the comment was the remark of one of the district's leading orchardists.

"I planned to trim trees next week but I don't see how I'll get it done. There's a sale every day next week."

The antique hunter finds a gold mine at some of these sales, but the professional antique dealer apparently has not yet found his way into the Ozarks. Purchases are made mostly by neighbors and friends, anxious for keepsakes and whatnots.

Government of the people, by college professors, for pressure groups.

SEEK TO PURCHASE 100 NEW STREET CARS FOR PITTSBURGH USE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept 23—Trustees of the Pittsburgh Railways Company on Wednesday filed a petition in Federal court for permission to purchase 100 new street cars, not to cost more than two million dollars and to be delivered in the fall of 1944.

The petition stated that because of automobile restrictions, the need for street car service next year would be as great or greater than at present. A hearing on the petition will be held October 12.

Of the 1017 street cars now in service, 401 are "modern," 412 are "older but modernized" while 192 are "unattractive to the public because of their age," company officials said.

Universal Plant Employes Pass War Loan Quota

Report $27,450 So Far Sold In Campaign—Total Is Still Growing

Procrastination is a word forgotten at the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company's plant at New Castle Junction. If there's a job to do, it is done promptly and this goes for war bonds. The employes of the company have passed their goal of $26,000 which is an average of $100 for every employe in the plant. Today the total stands at $27,450 and still rising.

When the Third War Bond campaign opened the employes formed themselves into 16 teams. Every team has met its quota and one team, that of Henry Matiste has a score of 360 per cent.

A bond rally over a week ago opened the rally. On Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock another rally will be held, this time to celebrate the fine work in bond sales and to wind up the drive with what subscriptions come in then. Judge W. Walter Braham will be the speaker.

Report Confusion During Raid Test

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, executive director of the state defense council, revealed today that "considerable confusion" was caused in certain areas during the August 6 daylight drill when factories and mines sounded their 1 o'clock whistles while the test was in progress.

In a bulletin to local defense councils Hutchison suggested that industries be advised to refrain from sounding whistles "not pertain to the public warning of a drill" from the first blue signal until the all clear.

He stressed that "this is to include all whistles in a community". He added that "if this safeguard were not adhered to during an actual raid, it could have disastrous results."

STATE BIRTH RATE NEAR NEW RECORD

Over 100,000 Babies Born During First Six Months Of Present Year

By TONY ZECCA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23—Spurred on by the war, the birth rate in Pennsylvania is zooming today toward a new record.

The state bureau of vital statistics disclosed that 101,450 babies were born during the first six months of the year, an increase of 11,072 over a comparable period last year.

A "great many" new fathers are appearing in the ranks of soldiers, surmised Miss Anna P. Halcovich, bureau statistician, and a "good many" of the babies are first born children.

With its birth rate increasing, Pennsylvania appeared to be keeping in step with the rest of the nation and the trend did not go unnoticed in the halls of Congress.

Said Chairman Cannon (D) Mo., of the House appropriations committee, at Washington: "The number of babies born to men in the armed forces has exceeded all expectations." The committee took the congressman's words to heart and yesterday approved the appropriation of an additional $18,620,000 for maternity aid to states.

Cannon's statement was reflected in Pennsylvania by requests from more than 4200 servicemen's wives for federal maternity assistance More than 500,000 Pennsylvanians are serving in the armed forces.

Secretary of Health Alexander H. Stewart indicated that the initial federal allocation of $136,000 for Pennsylvania will be insufficient and expressed hope that additional funds would be made available to meet all the requests.

Duke Of Windsor In Boston Visit

"Hopes U. S. And Britain Will Get Together After War" In Military Alliance

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 23 — The Duke of Windsor told reporters Wednesday that he "sincerely hopes the United States and Great Britain will get together after the war."

He spoke just across the Charles river from Harvard University, where on Labor Day, Prime Minister Winston Churchill pleaded for a continuance of the military alliance between the two nations at the end of the war.

In an informal news conference, with the duchess present, the duke said:

"I feel confident that there will be a greater feeling of mutual understanding."

He said he believed this understanding would be achieved because the troops of both countries have much more personal contact than they did in the last war.

"This is a different type of war," he added. "The men are in contact with one another. Therefore, any feeling that might have cropped up in the last war will be entirely eliminated, because they are fighting side by side.

When asked about the present war situation, he said:

"I am afraid the American Fifth Army casualties will be heavy. In these landings in Italy, some part of the United Nations forces was bound to meet heavy enemy resistance. The Fifth Army happened to be the ones in that spot."

The duke said he feels the situation now is much better than it was six months ago, adding, "The way I look at it right now, it is the beginning of the end."

The duchess said she and the duke were spending the day at Faulkner hospital with her "aunt Bessie," Mrs. D. Buckanan Merryman, who is convalescing from a fractured hip.

"We hope later to take aunt Bessie to Washington," she said.

SEEK TO FORCE SPAIN TO CEASE AIDING GERMANS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—It was learned authoritatively that the United States government has joined with Great Britain to bring diplomatic pressure to bear on Spain to withdraw the so-called Spanish "Blue Division" from the Russian front.

Both the American and British governments are understood to have informed the Spanish regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franso that the presence of Spanish troops with the Germans on an active fighting front against a major alley was hindering Anglo-American relations with Spain.

Enemy Agents Ready To Strike Nation Warned

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Enemy agents, saboteurs and fifth columnists are in this country awaiting a "moment of laxness" before striking, Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry warned Wednesday.

General Terry, commanding officer of the second service command addressed delegates to the 43rd annual conference of the New York State Association of chiefs of police.

"I take issue with those who say that the enemy is thousands of miles away," he said.

"Just as there were enemy agents in Poland, Holland, Norway, and other countries, so are there many of them right here in this country. They await only a moment of laxness on our part to accomplish their sinister purposes."

THE PARENT PROBLEM

is too heavy go calmly as a lady or gentleman to talk to the teacher or principal about it. My special bulletin, "Your Child and His Home Work," may be had by writing me enclosing a three-cent stamp on a self-addressed envelope.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. If your pre-school child asks you his letters on his block should you tell him what they are?

A. Of course; just as you would probably answer all his questions. But don't turn about and ask him what the letters are.

Q. My boy six has nightmares. He gets up at night, cries and screams but is still asleep.

A. Go to him (you or Dad, preferably Dad) and calmly awaken him by speaking to him gently as you apply a wet, cold sponge or cloth to his arms or face. Have your doctor check him over. Consider him a nervous child and try to create a calmer atmosphere and program for him by day. If there is a younger child suspect that jealousy might be a factor. My bulletin on the nervous child might help. It can be had without cost by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. My five-year-old girl will take no milk unless it is disguised in puddings and the like.

A. Tell her calmly just once she will have no other food until she drinks the milk placed before her at the beginning of each meal. Make it half a cup or less at first, increasing the amount very gradually after a few weeks. In case the child does not decide to drink the milk at the end of five minutes, remove it, keeping your lips sealed and your feelings serene. Let her have no other food till the next mealtime which will begin with milk again. Continue until the child is trained. Your success will depend on how well you can master your emotions.

Q. My 12-year-old boy planted a victory garden, worked hard at it for a few weeks but now does nothing at it until after long, painful arguments.

A. Be too grown-up to argue with him. Work out with him a written schedule. When he fails to follow it, make him sit doing nothing where you can see him—no radio, funnies or books—for exactly two hours, for each failure. Occasionally help him with his garden and be good-natured while you do.

A Washington official isn't fired for incompetence. If he is kicked out, it means he was getting too big.

U. S. Commandos In Corsica Battle

Help French To Score New Gains In Battle On Germans On Island

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 23.—American commandos, fighting shoulder to shoulder with French regulars and Corsican patriots, on Wednesday helped score new gains in the drive to hurl the Nazi occupation forces on Corsica into the sea.

The combined military-guerrilla forces drove ahead on the island made famous as the birthplace of Napoleon and caused the German garrison to withdraw from Bonifacio and Porto Vecchio, last main southern ports in Nazi hands.

The Germans were retreating toward the northward corner of the island, leaving behind them large numbers of dead and prisoners. During the last few days, the United Nations units counted more than a thousand Nazi dead. Several hundred were captured.

In the Levie sector, the Germans also were obliged to withdraw with heavy losses after violent fighting.

BARUCH HEARD ON DRAFT ISSUE

Says Force Required By Strategical Planning Must Be Provided

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Bernard M. Baruch, industrialist and administration advisor, told the Senate military affairs committee at a hearing on the fathers draft Wednesday afternoon that demands of the army and navy for manpower must be met.

"The moral is plain—if Gen. Marshall says a specified force is required by our strategical planning, give him what he wants," said Baruch.

"If you don't do that, then throw him out. The man in charge of the jobs should be given our unqualified support."

In this fashion Baruch backed the demand of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, for additional draftees totalling 1,221,000 from September to January.

Must Draft Fathers

The demand of the armed services was made despite the declaration of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, that the army and navy manpower demands cannot be met without drafting 446,000 fathers.

While Baruch emphasized the importance of the home front, his testimony carried a strong appeal to meet the demands of the armed services. He said:

"Our aim is high. Can we hit the target? Yes! The program can be met.

"To do it we must do two things:

"1. Improve our efficiency, which we can do in all fields of endeavor.

"2. Take from the civilians as much as is necessary, but leave them at least their needs—not their fancied wants. All must be treated alike. There must be equality of sacrifice.

"In these twain lies quick and certain victory. Why temporize now that it is within our grasp."

Must Save Home Front

Baruch praised botn Gen. Marshall and Admiral King. He said the chief of staff must include in his horizon the home front as well as army requirements.

"No good soldier will fail in that respect," he said. "The lesson of the last war is too near us to be ignored. The Germans failed because their home front was ignored. The collapse of civilian morale contaminated the Kaiser's field operations, and the victory came to us even earlier than was expected."

Baruch said that combat plane production "is not what it should be" but add that under direction of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes "our west coast manpower problem is headed for solution".

MORE BOXES TO BE OPENED

With no thought of comparing other elections with that of September 14, there does seem to be an unusual number of errors in the count this time. Thus far the official return board has 13 ballot boxes which are to be opened to ascertain just what the count was.

In the second ward the second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth precinct boxes are to be opened. In the first ward the second and third precinct boxes are to be opened and in the eighth ward the second and third precinct boxes.

According to the board, two wards turned in returns which needed no correction, the fourth and fifth. Each precinct in these wards had counts which tallied.

The present official return board will be on the job for some time. Hundreds of names were written in for various offices, especially in the Democratic primary where few candidates were filed and for election board officers, most of whom were not filed. As an example, for county treasurer on the Democratic ticket, the names of eight candidates were written on the ballot in one precinct. All of these scattered votes must be tallied.

There are 64 military ballots awaiting tally when the board concludes counting the returns from the 100 precincts in the county.

Nazi Air Strength Steadily Decreases

Quality Of German Pilots Also Appears To Be Deteriorating In Battle

By CLARK LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NORTHWEST AFRICA AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 21—(Delayed)—An Allied air force spokesman declared today that German air strength is steadily decreasing, with the quality of Nazi pilots and their tactical handling of their planes deteriorating.

Meanwhile the effectiveness of air attacks is on the upgrade as our pilots become more experienced, he said.

The German air effort against our landings at Salerno reached a very low point while our air power had risen to such an extent that September 14 was the biggest day in the history of the northwest Africa air force, he added. On that day Allied warplanes poured a concentration of 1,200 tons of bombs into a 16-mile enemy front in a total of 2,600 sorties by planes of the tactiful and strategic air forces.

But, the spokesman declared, even that tremendous tonnage fails to depict the intensity of the air forces' efforts on September 14, "a day which will stand out in the history of aerial bombing." Every available plane was massed for direct support of our ground troops and they succeeded in smashing German counter-attacks at a critical moment.

The spokesman explained that his reference to deteriorating German air power applied only to Nazi fighter planes since the German's bombing always was poor, bearing as much relation to proper use of air power as a chariot to a tank.

He said the Germans made their major effort in the air over Italy before the Allied invasion, when the Nazis concentrated fighters along the Naples-Foggia line, but our air strength overwhelmed them.

With increased experience, the spokesman declared, the efficiency of our air forces has improved greatly.

G-Men Hunt For Two Bank Robbers

Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, today announced intensification of a nationwide man hunt for Harry Londinsky, 31, and Meyer Dembin, 31, for bank robbery and violation of the National Motor Vehicle Theft Act.

Londinsky and Dembin, constant users of opium and associates of gamblers and jewel thieves, have been sought by the FBI since it was ascertained that they were two of the four men who robbed the First National Bank of Sparkill at Sparkill, New York, of $19,779 on February 8, 1935.

The robbers, armed with pistols and a machine gun, forced bank employees to drop to the floor and cover their faces and also instructed them to lie on the floor for at least an hour after the robbers made their getaway in a stolen black Packard sedan.

Britain Urged To Retain Key Island Possessions

By LOWELL BENNETT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 23—The necessity of retaining key islands throughout the world if Britain is to maintain her status as a first-line nation has been stressed by Sir Lionel Haworth, retired British Foreign Office official, in a special article in the London Sunday Times.

Citing what he describes as America "grasping the importance of islands in the imperial task of self-protection and . . . their uses in air communications," Haworth urges that Britain retain many of her pre-war island possessions whether or not it is decided to give them individual statehood.

'Should Hold Islands'

"During the last few years," he writes, "many islands in the Pacific have been occupied for use as air stations of the Pan American Airways. The United States has been aware that islands are as important in peace as in war."

Bombay and Singapore, declares Haworth, "were obtained by gift and by purchase. . . . They are British possessions in the strictest sense of the word—possessions to which no one can pretend to lay any kind of claim."

"On our part it would truly be a short-sighted policy if, while America is securing islands and island-bases in district seas as strategic and air bases, we should surrender those we hold to which our right is beyond criticism and which are strategically and economically so important to us."

Even if India is given her independence, he says, "we certainly should preserve our rights on the harbor and airfields (of Bombay island) with the accompanying right to maintain troops to protect them."

'Should Reserve Possession'

"This could be done in the same way as in the leases we have given to the United States, but reserving the full terms of possession in place of the leasehood."

Regarding another island, he writes: "Our claim to Singapore is no less strong. . . . It was leased to us as we have leased bases to the United States."

"Thus . . . our right to Singapore is as great as the claim of the United States to some of the territories which they hold in America itself."

"It is highly illogical that the United States should lease from us bases on islands which we hold in the West Indies, and that there should be at the same time objections made by some Americans to our holding islands to which our claim is unanswerable."

"Blue Division" May Be Removed From Red Front

Spanish Troops Expected To Be Withdrawn; Result Of Allied Pressure

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Responsible sources in Washington said today that Gen. Francisco Franco, Spain's chief of state, has promised to withdraw the Spanish so-called "Blue Division" from the Russian front as a result of Anglo-American diplomatic pressure on Madrid.

The Spanish Blue Division originally was sent to the Russian front in September, 1941. It was intended as a gesture of Spain's support for German's move to crush the Soviet regime in Russia and thus allegedly save Europe from the danger of communism.

Latest diplomatic reports estimate the present strength of the Blue Division at about 11,000 men. Gen. Franco is said to have promised to complete the withdrawal of the division before Christmas.

The Spanish leader's willingness to withdraw the Spanish forces from the Russian front is viewed in diplomatic circles in Washington as further evidence of Spain's shift toward strict neutrality in the European conflict.

It is also considered a diplomatic victory for the United States and Great Britain. The American and British governments have been pressing Franco for months to withdraw the Blue Division.

It has been pointed out to Madrid that Russia is a major ally of the United States and Britain. Washington and London also have told Franco that the presence of Spanish troops with the German forces in Russia indirectly affected the successful prosecution of the Allied war effort against the Axis powers.

Admiral Nimitz Makes Report Of Attack On Japs

Four Jap Bases In Central Pacific Heavily Raided Recently, He States

By RICHARD HALLER
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 23.—Aircraft carriers of the United States Pacific fleet and land-based army and navy airplanes joined in a concerted assault which heavily damaged four Jap bases in the central Pacific, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz revealed today.

In a new communique expanding a previous official announcement that Tarawa in the Gilbert group and Nauru, west of the Gilberts, had been blasted last week-end, the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet disclosed that two other points in the Gilberts, Makin and Apamama, also were attacked.

The admiral said that more than 200 sorties were flown against the four enemy bases and that in addition to the damage wrought on the Jap fortified points at least 32 enemy aircraft were destroyed or damaged at a cost of only four American planes.

The attack on Makin was the first since the marine raid on August 17, 1942, led by Lt. Col. James Roosevelt, son of the president, and Col. Carlson.

The combined attacks were made during the night and day of Sept. 17-18 by carrier-based and land-based army and navy aircraft from various bases in the central and south Pacific areas.

"More than 200 sorties were carried out by planes against Tarawa, Makin and Apamama islands in the northern Gilberts,'" the communique said.

The Tarawa airdrome was blasted and facilities there were heavily damaged. Eight Jap bombers were destroyed on the runway and one small vessel was sunk.

The Makin air base also was damaged. Three-engined seaplanes and another patrol plane were destroyed.

At Apamama, Jap camp installations were heavily hit.

Installations at Nauru also were damaged.

In addition to destroying aircraft on the ground, the allied airmen shot down six Zeros and two medium bombers, probably destroyed four other Zeros and damaged eight more fighters.

Japan Nervous Over Possibility Of Heavy Attacks

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Japan showed growing signs of fear of American attacks on its homeland possessions today as reports from Pearl Harbor disclosed heavy and widespread damage in the recent U. S. raids on strongholds in the Gilbert islands.

While radio Tokyo broadcast a report that some of its government offices and war industries would be evacuated from principal cities, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in a communique from Pearl Harbor revealed that four Japanese bases were hit by American carrier and land-based planes in the central Pacific area.

The communique from the Pacific fleet chief disclosed that Makin, Tarawa, Nauru and Apamama were hit hard by strong forces of carrier-based and land planes on Sept. 18 and 19. Previously only meager details were announced.

It was the first disclosure that the islands of Makin and Apamama were hit in the recent assault. Makin was raided last summer by forces headed by Lt. Col. Jimmy Roosevelt and other marine officers.

Nimitz said that more than 200 sorties were made against the four enemy bases and that heavy damage was inflicted, especially on installations at Tarawa.

The overwhelming superiority of the American forces was indicated by the fact that despite aerial and anti-aircraft opposition only four U. S. planes were reported lost.

MOVIE VERSION OF STAR'S TRIP BANS SWEATER

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Sweaters were okay for Film Star Carole Landis in Africa, but not in the movie about her trip.

The ironic situation was revealed today by representatives of the 20th Century-Fox studio, which is about to star Miss Landis, Kay Francis, Martha Raye and Mitzi Mayfair in "Four Jills in a Jeep", a story based on the journey to North Africa to entertain the American expeditionary forces.

The curvaceous Miss Landis wore sweaters all the time over there, it was explained, both to keep warm and to please the boys.

But she mustn't dress that way in the film.

The censors would object.

Rockefeller Center Elevator Operators Are Out On Strike

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Milling crowds flowed over from Rockefeller Center buildings into the plaza and adjoining streets today after a wildcat walkout of 250 elevator operators left the development without elevator service.

Only a few of the elevators in the development's 14 buildings were in operation, and employes patiently waited in line for rides to their offices in upper stories.

Deputy Chief Inspector John W. Conway ordered the area roped off as thousands arriving for work jammed the lobbies and poured into the street, halting traffic.

The strike was called just before the rush hour yesterday and an all-night conference of strike leaders, management representatives and labor advisers failed to end the walkout in time for resumption of service before this morning's rush.

Generals Don't Die In Bed Now

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Brigadier General Uzal G. Ent, leader of the American aerial task force which occupied Rumania's Ploesti oil fields, arrived home in Pittsburgh today to contend that "generals don't die in bed" in this war.

"It's my idea," he explained, that leaders can't direct combat missions unless they know from personal experiences what their men must go through.

He said that in the 10 months he spent in the North African and Mediterranean theaters he repeatedly saw air force generals, including Major General Lewis Brereton, top officer for the Middle East, accompany their men on dangerous flights.

UNUSUAL SIGHT

(International News Service)

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Hundreds of worshippers flocked today to St. Rocco's Catholic church in Glen Cove, L. I., attracted by a supposedly immovable cruicifix which has turned and bent slightly toward an honor roll of service men.

The crucifix, atop a marble block and concrete base, is about 20 feet high and stands in the church yard. Its movement was first noticed several days ago, and word spread swiftly in the Italian colony.

The pastor of the church, Rev Dante Del Fiorentello, said there was no doubt the occurrence was "phenomenal," but added that it might have been caused by the weather warping the wood.

YOUTH WOUNDED BY POLICEMAN

Running Gun Battle Takes Place On Streets Of Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Pittsburgh police, for the second time in 48 hours, engaged in a running gun battle with two youthful thugs today in a downtown section of the city in full view of hundreds of spectators.

Scores of bullets were fired into the air during the course of the battle which was precipitated when a quartet of policemen surrounded an office building where a burglary had been reported in progress.

When it was over, one detective, John Dean, was slightly injured from a fall, and one youth, Walter Lucas, 23, of the north side, was under arrest on burglary charges. A second suspect escaped the hail of gunfire.

The officers arrived at the building in response to an anonymous telephone call informing them that a robbery was taking place. Surrounding the building, the police waited for the burglars to come out.

Shortly after the two men made a break for liberty and exchanged heavy gunfire with the detectives, Lucas was finally overpowered, but his unidentified companion got away.

Detective Dean was reported injured when he jumped a picket fence while pursuing Lucas. Two of the other officers, Police Detectives Melvin MacDonald and A. T. Valentine, took part in a gun fight with four 'teen-aged robbers Tuesday in which one of the youths was killed.

HOLD MAN FOR MOTHER'S DEATH

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—A 26-year-old odd-jobs worker was held for observation at Philadelphia General hospital today after police lodged a homicide charge against him in connection with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Sweeney, 56.

He is Thomas Sweeney, of West Philadelphia. His mother was found dead in her apartment late yesterday, apparently beaten to death with a small hammer which lay near her body.

Police were summoned by Sweeney's brother, Edward, who discovered Mrs. Sweeney's body when he returned from work. Edward told police his brother had brooded since he was disappointed in a love affair several years ago, and had recently spent 10 days in the hospital for observation.

Dr. Arthur Casey, police surgeon, examined Thomas and asserted he is a "maniac depressive". Police said two small slashes on Sweeney's throat indicated he might have attempted suicide.

One child in every thousand dies by accident before it is a year old—"accident" meaning somebody's carelessness.

DON'T PAY OVER 25c FOR MEDICINE TODAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

CROWDS THRONG PAYLESS CUT RATE STORE TO BUY 25c MEDICINE

Immediately following yesterday's announcement that Pay Less Cut-Rate would sell medicine to anyone for 25c—only 3 days (today, Friday and Saturday) —crowds began thronging this popular drug store.

Moe Fischer, The Herba-Lex Man, who gives suffering people a chance to try his medicine this week at a fraction of its actual value.

Reason For Amazing Offer

This offer is made because Pay Less Cut-Rate believes it is only fair that everyone who suffers should have a chance to try a medicine at this low cost in order to see if it will help them, before they pay the full-size price for it.

Pay Less also believes that a large percentage of the people of New Castle need a "natural" medicine for such ailments as stomach trouble, constipation, weak kidneys, muscular pains and run-down conditions.

21 Helpful Ingredients Used

The medicine referred to is the new, scientific formula of juices made from 21 of Nature's finest health-giving herbs. It is called Herba-Lex. It is estimated that this medicine has helped the majority of those who have taken it. Therefore, we offer each person one 75c introductory bottle for 25c (three days ONLY) because we believe those who are benefited will keep on using it. The regular full-size price of this medicine is $1.35.

What It Will Do

Herba-Lex will help cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastically or severely)—as they were NEVER CLEANSED BEFORE. It will aid in ridding the system of gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside you a long time, causing you days of misery with headaches, dizzy spells, skin eruptions and that tired, dragged-out feeling. Herba-Lex is of genuine assistance in making the digestive organs sweet and clean.

Users say that Herba-Lex will also help make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active, and help make you LOOK, ACT and FEEL like a DIFFERENT PERSON.

How It Acts

Herba-Lex is taken before meals. It mixes with the food in the stomach thus helping to eliminate the poisons that promote stomach troubles. Usually, it helps to stop gas pains, sourness, bloat and belching in a few minutes. Herba-Lex works pleasantly to urge greater liver activity and remove old, sour bile from your system so that digestion and elimination can improve. Herba-Lex tens to flush away the stagnent poisons from the kidneys and to relieve backache, bladder irritation and weakness. It effectively aids in toning up the system generally, by natural means.

This offer is good for 3 days ONLY so read ALL of this announcement and act at once! Do this in your own interest and for the good of your health.

How To Get It For 25c

Now, whether or not Herba-Lex will help you, as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But, in view of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25c, only a fraction of its actual cost. To get your first bottle simply clip the coupon below and bring it to Pay Less Cut-Rate today, Friday or Saturday.

Recount Asked Of Farrell Vote

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Sept. 23.—A petition from Michael Nevant, Farrell, was presented to Judge George H. Rowley today by his attorneys, J. A. Stranahan and T. A. Sampson, of Mercer. The petition asked for a recount of the votes in Farrell's Democratic mayoralty contest in which Nevant lost to Lewis Levine, incumbent, by 40 votes. The petition also asked for an inspection of the voting machines.

Nevant's petition asks that all 16 voting machines used in the election be examined and that the votes be recounted. The county assumes the cost of the inspections if any discrepancy is shown, but if no errors are found the petitioners must pay for the work.

The official count of all votes cast in the primary is now being made in Mercer, but will not be finished for some time due to the numerous write-ins for local offices in townships and small boroughs.

Because of the tremendous demand, due in part to the popularity of Victory gardens, nearly a thousand carloads of tomato plants were handled by Railway Express Agency up to early summer from the south Georgia plant-growing territory alone.

POST-WAR PLAN IS CONSIDERED

Local Government Commission Of State Plans For Employment

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—The adoption of a post-war legislative program of community aid to offset unemployment and to ease tax burdens was pledged today by the local government commission.

Sen. George B. Stevenson (R) Clinton, chairman of the 10-member legislative agency, said nine subjects had been recommended but that other proposals would be discussed at subsequent meetings before the commission's program is drafted for submission to the 1945 session of the general assembly.

Initial subjects that will be studied, Stevenson said, included a proposal that cities and boroughs share gasoline tax revenues. Under existing laws, a portion of the levy is returned to the counties.

Other recommendations called for uniform fiscal years in all the state's political sub-divisions, a reduction of the costs born by communities in tax sales and a decrease in taxation levied for school districts and municipalities. The commission also will investigate the need for legislation designed to prevent property owners from escaping proper taxation by establishing a 'block and lot plan of identification and evaluation."

The balance of the initial agenda included recommendations for clarifying amendments for the municipal retirement acts of 1943, municipal participation in post-war projects, population shifts and legislation aimed at aiding communities to eliminate stream pollution.

The nine subjects, which probably will be expanded, will be studied by the commission before the 1945 session opens. The proposed legislation will be drafted following conferences with officials of municipalities, industries and the state government.

"The fundamental purpose of the program," Stevenson declared, "is to keep down the cost of local government and wherever possible to bring about a reduction in operations without jeoparding efficiency."

The commission will meet again next month.

Premier Tojo Warns Japanese People

"Time Of Emergency Is At Hand," People Of Japan Are Informed

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Premier General Hideki Tojo warned the Japanese people today that a "time of emergency" is at hand.

This warning was given his Nipponese followers, the office of war information said, as Japanese and German broadcasts and press dispatches revealed details of a far reaching program to strengthen the Jap home front.

"In view of the serious war situation," one intercepted Domei dispatch said large cities will be evacuated due to the increasing threat of Allied air bombing. In addition, a total mobilization of the civilian population for either military service or war work, and a policy of increasing munitions production and attaining Jap-Manchurian self-sufficiency in food output is included in the new program.

"The government at this time, in order to ensure ultimate victory, has taken every possible measure to increase fighting strength and increase war production," the Japanese premier declared in his radio address. The talk was monitored by the United States government service.

Tojo told the Japanese people that the most important problem facing them today is that of increasing Japan's strength.

Pertinent points in the new program approved yesterday by the Japanese cabinet, call for drastic changes in the enemy's conscription, educational, and administrative systems.

Among the more striking changes as announced in a communique by the Japanese information board were:

1. A ten-point plan to "make the management of administrative affairs conform with the requirements of decisive warfare". This was to be effected through decentralization of the government.

2. "Mobilization of the people" chiefly through suspension of postponement of conscription generally.

Also under this project would be "adjustment and expansion of technical institutions of learning and amalgamation and readjustment of uninvresities and colleges of law and liberal arts". Strengthening the conscription of women is anticipated, too.

War Training Classes To Start

Realziing the importance of mathematics in all war industries, the federal government through its program of engineering, science and management war training program conducted in New Castle by Westminster College, in cooperation with Carnegie Institute of Technology, and by Pennsylvania State College, is again offering a free course in introductory mathematics to men and women of the New Castle district.

Classes officially begin tonight at 7 o'clock in the senior high school but new students may register at any time during the first class session. Only requirement for admission is high school graduation with one year of mathematics.

The class will meet from 7 to 9 on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and will include six weeks of work in algebra and six weeks in trigonometry.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people." —Proverbs 14:34.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for September 26 is Deuteronomy 1-3, 11, the Golden Text being Proverbs 14:34, "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.")

Deuteronomy is a repetition of the laws given to the people of Israel in Leviticus. It is a summary of these laws, and also emphasizes that first of all commandments, "Thou shalt love thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."

The first three chapters, however, are a review by Moses of the history of the Children of Israel from the time they left Egypt up to the last month of the 40th year of their wanderings, when they stood ready to enter the promised land which Moses would see from the mountain top but never enter.

We do not know what happened to the Israelites for many of their years of wandering. We are told vividly about the start of their travels and also the end of them.

In his talk to his people after their many years of wandering, and near the end of his life, Moses reminded them that the Lord had said now was the time for them to set foot on the land He was giving them.

Moses Wearies of Strife

Moses reminded them that he had grown weary of their burdens and strife and had asked the Lord what to do. The Lord had told him to take wise men of the various tribes and let them share the burden. He did so and commanded the people to obey the judgments which these wise men gave because they came from the Lord.

"And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites—which the Lord God doth give unto us.

"Behold the Lord thy God hath set the land before thee: go up and possess it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; fear not, neither be discouraged."

The Israelites asked Moses to send them into the land to see what it was like and to report to them. Moses was glad to do so, and chose 12 men, one from each tribe, and sent them to spy out the land. The men brought back fruits of the land and reported, "It is a good land which the Lord our God doth give us."

But the people grumbled in their tents and said the Lord hated them or He would not have brought them from Egypt to deliver them to the Amorites who were a tall and great people, much bigger than the Israelites, and their cities had high walls. They had no faith in God who had led them all these years, and the Lord grew angry with them and with Moses.

Lord Directs Their Way

The Lord directed every step of their way, teling them the lands they should pass through and what should be their conduct while they were there. The land of the children of Esau, for instance, they should pass through discreetly for the people would be afraid of them, but they might buy meat and water of them.

They were commanded to pass over the "brook Zered", and they did. The Moabites were not to be disturbed for the Lord had given the land to the children of Lot. But "behold I have given into thine hand Sihon, the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land: begin to possess it and contend with him in battle." They took that land and also the land of the giant, Og, king of Bashan. They took all the cities and killed all the people, but took the cattle with them. The 11th verse of the third chapter of Deuteronomy tells about this huge man whost "bedstead was of iron—nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man." Scholars dispute the iron bed, saying it may have been of stone. The land thus conquered was divided up among the tribes of Israel.

Moses commanded Joshua at this time, saying, "Thine eyes have seen all that the Lord your God hath done unto these two kings: so shall the Lord do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest. Ye shall not fear them; for the Lord your God He shall fight for you."

Then Moses pleaded with the Lord to let him go over into the land of Jordan, but the Lord said: "Get thee up into the top of Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward and behold it with thine eyes; for thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

"But charge Joshua, and encourage him, and strengthen him: for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which thou shalt see."

In the last chapter of Deuteronomy we are told that "Moses the servant of the Lord died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the Lord.

"And He buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Bethpeor: but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day."

Secretary Of State Hull Says Meeting Likely In North Africa

ALLIED POLITICAL COMMISSION PLAN

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today announced the likelihood of an early meeting between American, British and Soviet representatives in North Africa to establish the first Allied political commission of this war.

Hull told his news conference that, according to all indications, the meeting will take place shortly. He said that the American representative has not yet been selected, but an announcement in that connection may be expected shortly.

The secretary said the purpose of the Allied commission would be to assemble information and discuss suggestions concerning problems affecting the Mediterranean area.

Not To Make Decisions

Hull emphasized that the commission would not necessarily be authorized to make decisions. He considered it more likely that the commission would submit recommendations to the respective governments for their approval.

The secretary spoke of the possibility of China being represented on the commission, but later said he was not sure whether the Chinese would find they had sufficient interest in the problems of the Mediterranean to require direct representation.

He added that in any event China would be kept fully informed of the commission's activities.

Hull said he still is not ready to make any announcement concerning American representation at the tripower conference in Moscow next months of high ranking American, British and Soviet diplomatic representatives.

Coal Dealers Ask Price Increase For Delivery Limit

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23 — One hundred and fifteen western Pennsylvania coal dealers today asked a price increase of 50 cents a ton if they are limited to two-ton deliveries per family.

OPA Director Alvin J. Williams directed Howard D. Gibbs, executive secretary of the retail coal merchants association, to file a written request for submission to OPA offices in New York. Gibbs, who declared many drivers have been told not to deliver to anyone who has more than two tons of coal on hand said:

"Fifty per cent of the independent coal truckers have gone to war plants or are hauling war materials. A trucker's gross profit is $1.50 a ton. With talk of limiting deliveries to two tons" Gibbs explained, "The trucker would have to spend much more time to make the same profit."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills

Removed Shell

LIEUT. COMDR. Harold W. Jacox (above), Pittsburgh, Pa., was one of a trio of navy doctors responsible for saving the life of sailor Allen Gordon, Rock Island, Ill., after he had been injured in a freak accident aboard a warship. Gordon was struck by a 20 mm. anti-aircraft shell that lodged in his hip. By a freak of fate it failed to explode. At a base hospital, the three doctors operated behind steel plate and removed the live shell from Gordon's hip. (International)

Gen. Marshall's Future Is Up To President

Situation May Be Developed At News Conference On Friday

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The major mystery about the future of Gen. George C. Marshall today is whether he will be deprived of his post as United States Army chief of staff when he accepts appointment as world commander-in-chief of the Anglo-American armed forces.

Only President Roosevelt can answer the question. He may do so Friday at his news conference.

It has been confirmed that the President and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill have agreed to appoint General Marshall as their world field commander.

There are four significant facts about the appointment, newly disclosed by competent authority.

1. The idea of giving General Marshall this title and post originated in the United States.

2. It was readily agreed to by Churchill, who was a little surprised at the suggestion, as were his British army and navy advisors.

3. The British are willing to give General Marshal broad power to determine future military strategy and if his powers are limited, in any degree, it will be due to objections within the United States.

4. A great majority of high ranking American Army and Navy officers in Washington still believe Marshall is being "kicked upstairs," as was charged by the Army and Navy Journal, so he can be stripped of his present vast power over military strategy.

See Promotion

To present the entire picture, however, it is necessary to add that many administration officials look upon the new appointment as a promotion for Marshall. One of the President's most important advisers, had this to say:

"It is not being done with the idea of demoting General Marshall. We are furnishing most of the men who will fight this war. And we are furnishing most of the supplies Therefore, we thought we ought to name the man to run the show and the best one we had is the right one."

The President alone has the power to keep General Marshall in his present position of power. He could do so by retaining Marshall as Army chief of staff when he becomes world-field commander. Or the President can allow Marshall to name his own successor as chief of staff while retaining him on the combined chiefs of staff.

If there is any other solution the Army will believe that Marshall has been demoted—as will the British.

There is one curious angle to the Marshall affair. If General Marshall is ousted as chief of staff, the President must give the Senate an opportunity to pass upon the whole issue. The President must submit not only the name of the new chief of staff to the Senate for confirmation but also Marshall's name. This is due to the fact that the moment his term as chief of staff ends, Marshall reverts to the rank of major general, his permanent rank in the Army.

Marshall has been a general only because he held the office of chief of staff. And if he is to serve as world commander-in-chief his appointment as a general ought to be predated a couple of years, or men like Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces will outrank him. That might prove embarrassing in war time.

All this maneuvering is unnecessary, if Marshall remains as chief of staff.

Charged With Violations Of OPA's Ceiling Prices On Meat

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Three meat wholesale firms and 16 retail meat shops supplying the Butler-New Castle area were ordered today by the Pittsburgh office of administrative hearings to suspend operations for periods ranging from one week to 30 days.

The packers and butchers were charged with violating the OPA's price ceilings on meat.

OPA Commissioner Allen Caruthers ordered that the effective dates of the suspensions be staggered to avert a possible serious shortage of meat in the two communities.

Attorney Marshall G. Matheny, of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, pointed out to Caruthers that the closing of the three packing concerns and all the retail shops simultaneously would leave the district virtually without fresh meat for a month.

The packers suspended are Joseph Cohen & Sons, New Castle; Joseph Morris, Wampum, and N. Rosen, New Castle.

The retailers accused of violating the price ceilings are Mira Market, George J. Burckhart, McKissick Provision company, Durant's Market and J. H. Hilton, all of New Castle; M. D. Hamm, W. J .Offutt & Co., Krummeck Brothers, Perry Brothers and Jacob Friedman, all of Butler; Schoeffel's Market, Evans City; Walter Kramer, Mars; Tony Auria & Son, Helen Gryzbowski, William McMillan and Scheidemantle's, all of New Castle.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

By Lewis C. Dayton, County Agent

GIVE THE PASTURES A CHANCE FOR SURVIVAL

Trying to get a little more grazing in the fall, many Lawrence County dairymen greatly reduce the productivity and earliness of their pastures the following season.

Grasses and clovers must have an extensive and vigorous root system to produce as they can and should. Root growth depends on the manufacture of food material in the top growth. If the top is not allowed to grow the roots are stunted and weakened. This, in return, prevents a good top growth. The best way to kill the perennial weed is to keep the top cut off. Useful perennials are weakened in the same way.

Pasture grasses renew their root systems almost entirely each fall. If the top is not allowed to develop several inches of growth at this season, renewal is almost impossible and spring growth will be slow and weak. This means low productivity all season and a better chance for weeds to become established.

In the case of clovers and alfalfa, the fall months are used to develop and store roots with nourishment needed for good winter survival and vigorous spring recovery. Cutting or heavy pasturing of alfalfa and clover in September often results in severe winter-killing, or at least a weakened stand. Many Ladino pastures which went through their first winter in excellent condition lost nearly all of their clover plants the second winter when grazed closely until rather late fall, report extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College.

Several inches of fall growth of grass and clover is a valuable protection to any sod over winter. Snow is likely to be blown off bare fields and the surface is completely exposed to high winds, low temperatures and alternate freezing and thawing. Such conditions are especially detrimental to clovers and alfalfa and often result in killing, with or without noticeable heaving.

When the silo is filled, the top silage will spoil to a considerable depth unless used. Therefore, feeding might well start at once. Most hay mows are well filled so that farmers can afford to start feeding hay early rather than to compel the stock to take the last possible mouthful from already over-grazed pastures. By starting barn feeding earlier, milk production may be better maintained and pastures will be ready earlier next spring and may produce better all next summer.

If hay fields which are to be plowed next spring can be grazed now, stock will get much more there than on short pastures. Rank growth on new seedings may be better for a partial grazing and tramping as long as the ground is not too wet, but close grazing of young clover and alfalfa should be avoided.

PRODUCE CLEAN EGGS AND SAVE MUCH WORK

If Lawrence County poultrymen will be careful to produce clean eggs, they will save a lot of time and effort in cleaning dirty ones. Here is how to keep the eggs clean.

The lighting boards in front of all the nests and feeders should be not more than two inches wide and they should be kept clean. The dropping boards should be screened to keep the birds out of the manure. The wet areas around the drinking fountains should be eliminated, if possible. Shavings make a very satisfactory nesting material and do not stain the eggs. Then, of course, gathering eggs three times a day is an important help in keeping the eggs clean.

POTATO DISEASE CAUSES SERIOUS CROP LOSSES

Potato growers throughout Pennsylvania are suffering serious crop losses this year caused by ring rot, a highly contagious disease. O. D. Burke, plant pathology extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, reports the losses have a greater than normally because of extensive use of seed which was not certified. Generally, certified seed has been free of ring-rot.

The greater use of poor seed last spring was brought about by three factors: 1. A scarcity of seed occasioned by high prices of table stock which meant that some good seed was moved for that purpose, 2. a severe blight epidemic in 1942 that destroyed many good seed fields, and 3. an increased planting by both victory gardeners and farmers as an aid to the war effort.

Seed scarcity led to the use of seed that was labeled only seed or selected seed and was not certified or carried no statement or ring-rot presence or virus freedom. Such a practice could only result in losses from virus diseases and field rot from ring-rot such as has occurred. A further loss, however, is in that the potatoes on the farms of many growers are now so contaminated with ring-rot that all their seed must be purchased for the 1944 planting.

For these growers the only safe procedure is to sell the entire crop, do a real clean-up on the premises by using a good disinfectant, such as 1 quart of formaldehyde in 30 gallons of water to spray storages and equipment, and the secure certified seed or seed produced from certified stock this year that is known to be free from ring-rot, says Burke. Scarcity of good seed makes a "must" of securing the seed now before it is moved for table stock, he reminds.

LOOK OVER WOODLOT NOW

An hour or two spent in the woodlot just before the leaves fall will give an owner a good idea of the condition of his woodlot. The weak, sickly, and dead trees can be easily detected at this time.

With a small axe or hatchet, one can mark the trees for removal later in the fall or winter. By "blazing" the trees all on the same side, they can be found easily when cutting begins.

The timber market is strong, particularly for logs or other products cut and placed on a skidway where a truck can load them. Practically all timber goes into the war effort and is needed badly. Prices are good.

In addition to marketing the poorer trees, this is a good time to cut trees which are ripe for essential lumber products. Owing to the general shortage of labor for all kinds of work, it is important that farmers and other land owners cut and skid as much of their marketable timber as possible.

PROTECT HOME FROM FLIES—ANNUAL PESTS

Overripe garden andorchard products and the discarded materials on canning days are number one fly attractions, reminds Miss Josephine Simpson, Home Economics Extension representative, Lawrence County. Window and door screens that are in good condition will help keep out the pests.

Sagging or torn screens can be repaired easily, she points out. Wooden or twisted wire braces placed diagonally from one corner to the other will hold the frame in place after it has been pulled back into shape. Small metal braces attached to each corner will do the same thing.

Holes in screens may be patched with a piece of wire mesh. Fit a patch over the hole, much the same as mending a garment, and fasten the two meshes together with fine wire.

Where a new screen is needed and it can be bought, be sure to get the type that fits the window. There are full length window screens hinged at the top or side to make cleaning and removal easy. These are the most practical.

If the full length screen cannot be obtained, the next best buy is a screen that fits the lower half of the window. Such a screen may be swung from hinges. The sliding type of screen upon which the window rests affords the least protection because it does not fit snugly, but is better than no screen at all.

CHILDEN CAN LEARN EARLY TO COOPERATE

Every day seems to bring more extra jobs for the already busy home-maker which makes it all the more necessary for family cooperation, believes Miss Josephine Simpson, Home Economics Extension representative.

Being able to take care of themselves is the biggest contribution that small children can make in the family plan. But before they can help much, some special provisions will need to be made.

To encourage children to take care of their clothes, low hooks in the closet can be arranged. A low bar or a towel rack that swings out from the wall is needed for coats, suits, or dresses that are put on hangers. The lowest dresser drawer or a corner of it may be used for other clothing.

A box that sets solidly on the floor and that may be moved easily from place to place will make it possible for children to wait on themselves in the bathroom. Low hooks for towels, etc will help children to keep the bathroom neat. A mirror properly hung will encourage children to keep their faces clean and hair combed.

For the small child, a low table and chair for mealtime will make him feel more grown up and inspire him to act that way. Being lifted in and out of a baby high chair and developing habits of self-dependency do not go together, reminds Miss Simpson.

Children will take more responsibility for their eating if they can set their own table and pull their own chairs up under themselves. Parents find that making it possible for children to do for themselves saves time and labor and is valuable learning experience for the children.

Sees No Need Of Special Session

No Indication As Yet As To Call For Legislature, Says Governor

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Gov. Edward Martin said today that there was nothing as yet to indicate that it would be necessary to call a special session of the General Assembly next year in advance of the regular biennial meeting in 1945.

He told his news conference that only "wartime exigencies", including tax reduction, would necessitate an extraordinary session. At the present time, he added, further tax decreases were not in sight. Considerable tax reductions were approved by the 1943 General Assembly.

The chief executive was advised by reporters that Rep. Reuben E. Cohen, of Philadelphia, House minority leader, had predicted he would reconvene the legislators during the 1944 Presidential campaign and "make political propaganda out of it," by reducing taxes.

Retorted the chief executive:

"The reduction of taxes is very good propaganda. If there is something that we can do to win the war, there wouldn't be any hesitancy, and if one (a special session) was needed to reduce taxes, I would call it."

He added, however, that "until we can further decrease expenditures we can't decrease taxes." His economy measures, he said, were "making some progress" in decreasing the expenses of state executive departments.

"The greatest difficulty in reducing taxes is the continuous demand of all types of people and communities for more government and the desire of local government to shift the burden to state government," he remarked.

The governor said he did not anticipate making appointments to the 10-member postwar planning commission created by the 1943 legislature until local planning agencies have progressed further with their work. At present the commission is administered by an executive director, Mark S. James, of Pittsburgh, assisted by seven clerical workers, none of whom have been paid since July 1. Auditor General F. Clair Ross has held up their pay until the governor fills the commission.

The governor explained that "the postwar planning commission will coordinate the work of several state agencies and the local agencies, but they have not progressed far enough yet to transfer their efforts to the postwar planning commission."

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—In response to questions about a new post for Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, Secretary of War Stimson today declared that generals usually are assigned to commands where they will be of the "greatest possible use."

The secretary also parried all questions on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's recent statement which was interpreted as an indication that his command was being relegated to a comparatively minor one in the Pacific.

Stimson was asked if MacArthur soon would be called home for conferences and he replied that the Southwest Pacific commander was "very busy" with campaigns to make such a long trip.

Huge Number Of Draft Age Men On U. S. Payroll

Over 1,300,000 Single Men And Married Men Without Children Reported

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The House military affairs committee was told today that a completed report by the selective service commission which has not yet been made public shows that there are 1,300,000 draft age men on the federal payroll who are single or married without children.

The statement was made by Rep. Harness (R) Ind., a member of the committee, who said that in one agency alone—the federal security administration — there are 1,086 single men and 1,184 married men without children who are not yet in the armed service although of draft age.

Existence of the manpower report was divulged as the Senate military affairs committee neared the end of hearings on the Wheeler bill to defer the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

Wheeler, leading opponent of the father draft, has contended that armed service requirements can be met without drafting fathers, if 100 percent efficiency is obtained in manpower uses in industry, agriculture and government.

Disclosure Made

The disclosure was made as Speaker of the House Rayburn (D) Tex., expressed the opinion that no legislation would be adopted by Congress prohibiting the draft of fathers.

Addressing himself to Robert M. Barnett of the war manpower commission's review board created by President Roosevelt last March to consider government deferment, Harness said:

"How in the name of common sense can that many single men and married men without children remain on the federal payroll when they are of draft age and at a time when draft boards all over the nation are disturbed about drafting pre-Pearl Harbor fathers with children?"

Barnett answered:

"We have wondered about that but felt it not in our jurisdiction."

Barnett added that the figures of his board did not agree with those revealed by Harness but he conceded the board's figures were "incomplete".

He also pointed out that many of the government employes might be in 4-F or awaiting induction.

During the United States Civil war, Belle Boyd, Confederate spy, was the deciding factor in General Johnston's victory over the North at the Battle of Bull Run.

Mrs. Spencer Tracy Writes Article On Educating Deaf

Article Presented In September Issue Of The "California Parent-Teacher"

In an article that stands out for its intelligent handling of the subject, Mrs. Spencer Tracy, formerly Miss Louise Treadwell of New Castle, discusses education for deaf children in the September issue of the 'California Parent-Teacher". Under the title of "Battle Stations for Mothers" Mrs. Tracy tells of the difficulties, through personal experience, of properly educating a deaf child.

In the opening paragraph of the article Mrs. Tracy sets her theme by saying "a deaf child is not a mute, not dumb, he is merely deaf. He does not speak or understand what is said to him simply because he cannot hear. He must acquire speech and understand it by other avenues. These avenues are sight and touch. If he is of good intelligence, he can be taught to communicate solely by speech and lip reading and to the exlusion of all other forms of communication like signs and finger spelling. Education must adapt the deaf to the world, the world will not adapt itself to them."

Later Mrs. Tracy tells of the work of the John Tracy clinic. This clinic, named for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy is doing a fine educational service among deaf children. It is located just off the campus of the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Tracy is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. James Tolles Ray of Wallace avenue.

GROVE CITY, Sept. 23—Petitions are in circulation in Pine township, asking that the use of voting machines be submitted at the next election. The township was the only district in Mercer county to reject voting machines, when the proposal was made at the November election in 1940.

At last week's primary, the election board worked for 38 hours to tabulate the paper ballots cast on three issues—beer, liquor and regular nomination ballots. A total of 650 residents voted, on each issue, making 1950 ballots to be counted.

PENNEY STORES BEAT BOND QUOTA

Management Congratulated On Increase In Quota Of Four Hundred Per Cent

Secretary of the Treasury Henry J. Morgenthau has just telegraphed the J. C. Penney Company congratulations on the magnificient job of bond selling which the company's 1610 stores turned in during the month of July. Last year, the company sold eight and a half million dollars worth of War Stamps and Bonds to set a high record for the chain and department store business. This year, in order to beat that quota a goal of ten million dollars was set. The final report for the month showed sales of $42,335,816.85, or four times the quota set.

News of this July achievement were released at a time when the Penney Company was engaged in an all-out endeavor to go over the top again this September in the Third War Loan Drive.

Army, Navy, and other service men and women, besides many celebrities appeared at Penney stores from coast to coast during the campaign. Many of the Penney company's own men and women were on these programs, including Lt. Bob Smith, of Stephenville, Texas., Flying Fortress pilot that accounted for eleven German fighter planes in one bombing raid.

Defense Theme Of 'Cane Drill On Wednesday

Bridenbaugh Satisfied As Proteges End Daylight Workouts; Youngstown Set

TILT HERE FRIDAY STARTS AT 8:15

Defense was the theme of Wednesday afternoon's workout as New Castle high's unbeaten eleven neared the end of drills for Friday night's game here with Youngstown East.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh watched as closely as an FBI man and was quick to correct fault steps. At the conclusion of the practice, the mentor asserted that he was satisfied with the showing made by his proteges.

The Cane varsity was comprised of:

Germani and Newman, ends; Lucidore and Sanfilippo, tackles; Joseph and Izzo, guards; Bob Preston, center; Falk and Williams, halfbacks; Lewis, fullback, and McKee, quarterback.

Replacements Impressive

Lucidore, who will replace the injured Mike Roussos, and Falk, Tony Razzano's successor, have been impressive during maneuvers staged this week. The pair doesn't figure to weaken the 'Cane attack too much, especially if the boys display the same calibre of play that they have unfurled in drills.

The locals will have to be wide-awake to snatch the third straight triumph of the season since the Youngstowners are known for their passing ability. The air will be well-sprayed with aerials. If the 'Canes aren't alert, a few hand grenades may explode into touchdown land.

So far as the Class AA WPIAL title chase is concerned, the 1942 champs will not place the crown on the chopping block since East is an out-of-state opponent.

East Ready

Across the line, Coach Dick Barrett's smooth-operating athletes are in top form for the eighth-'Cane-East clash. The Youngstowners whipped Rayon, 19-0, with apparent ease, unfolding an attack that included speed, punch and a tricky assortment of offensive plays.

In view of the fact that Roussos and Razzano are out of the lineup, the Ohioans are rated an excellent chance of toppling the locals.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

OMAHA QUITS

OMAHA, Sept. 23.—Omaha University has dropped football this fall following a survey taken by a committee named to study the situation.

BACK HEAVIEST LION

Heaviest man on the Penn State football squad is Blocking Back Aldo Cenci. Cenci, a Scranton boy, weighs 230.

New Castle (Ind.) Star Girl Kicker Ruled Off Squad

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Sept. 23.—Pretty 16-year-old Agnes Rifner, star kicker on the New Castle Trojans football team, had her brief career cut short today by a special ruling of the school board which prohibits contests of boys and girls.

The ruling cast a shroud of gloom over her teammates and left Agnes "broken hearted".

Pennsy Duck, Goose Season Opens Saturday

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Game commission officials were confident today of good duck and goose hunting when the season opens on Saturday. The period will end December 3.

The daily bag, which the commission described as "liberal", is 10 ducks and two geese and brant. The possession limit is twice the daily bag except on opening day, but only one wood duck, and none may be held longer than 45 days after the season.

Shooting hours are a half hour before sunrise to sunset until October 30, opening of the state small game season, when the hours are from nine a. m. to six p. m. Beginning November 1 until the end of the season, hours are from eight a. m. to six p. m.

Hunters unfamiliar with sunrise and sunset regulations were advised to consult their local papers for information.

Here And There In Sports Land

Are athletes who smoke pipes too content with life and too ready to accept life as it comes instead of going out to meet it? Joe McCarthy of the Yanks, believes the foregoing is true and according to reports will not hire a player who is a pipe-smoker. He swears his idea is the result of his experience with pipe-smoking individuals. Cigarette smokers, according to McCarthy, are usually nervous, sometimes flighty individuals, but Josefus says they always get things done—and that is the type that meets his whole-hearted approval.

Jeff Heath, Indians outfielder is in a Lakewood, O., hospital with bronchitis and may be through for the season . . . Nate Bolden beat Curtis Sheppard at Newark which won't help Shep's fight with Jimmy Bivins draw an extra large gate . . . Ace Adams, ironman pitcher for the Giants, comes from Iron City, Ga.

Union Will Play Ursuline Eleven Here On Friday

Game Starts At 2:30; Shenango Facing Zelienople Gridsters "Away" Tonight

Football will be presented on a large scale around these parts this coming week-end.

Shenango Township high, its batting record .500, starts the show by traveling to Zelienople high tonight. Coach Eddie Nahas reports his aggregation in fair condition.

The local "Wildcats", triumphant over Freedom after bowing to Evans City, can boost their stock by tumbling the favored neighboring rival.

Union Home Friday

On Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Union Township inaugurates the home season by entertaining a classy Ursuline eleven from Youngstown. Originally, the Scotland Laners were listed as idle but officials cooked up the date last Monday.

Union has one of the smallest and most inexperienced squads in several seasons. The backs are strictly of the "pony" variety.

Standouts are Eugene Hanna and Kenneth Hanna at center; Elmer Bigley, Edmund List, Albert Dudo and George Ames at guard; Joe Bobb, Louis Rotunno, James Book, Harry Foreman and "Bill" Taylor, tackle; John Cole, Phillip Clark, James Hilton and Bob Voughn, end; Benny Korab, Connie Brown, Joe Micco, Fred Broad, Stanley Boda, Louis Deli and Andrew Korby in the backfield.

Bessemer Away

While New Castle is playing host to Youngstown East, Ellwood City visits the Beaver Valley to meet the Rochester high scoring demons.

On Saturday, Bessemer calls on Evans City high. The Cementers unleashed a strong offense and a well-knitted defense to eke out a 12-6 triumph over a highly favored Kittanning team last Friday and stand an excellent chance of winning again.

ATHLETICS BUY 3 NEW PLAYERS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23—Three rookies, Joe Rullo and Bill Burgo, of Wilmington in the Interstate league, and Tony Parisse, North Philadelphia catcher, joined the Athletics as the Mackmen faced the Chicago White Sox in a swingshift twin bill.

Rullo was top-ranking second baseman of the Interstate circuit, while Burgo led the league with 20 home runs.

The A's also announced the recall of a trio of Wilmington pitchers, Everett Fagan, Sam Lowry and Talamadge Abernathy, together with Shortstop Bobby Wilkins.

Four Run Spree In Sixth Crushes United Outfit, 6-2

JB Hands Bishara Third Series Setback; Over 1,500 Witness Fast Setto

FRANK COPPLE HITTING STAR

In tug-of-war, as in most athletic contests, one side totters. An easy triumph is the subsequent result for the team still in possession of its aplomb.

This explains how the Johnson Bronze standard bearers defeated the United Engineering all-star cast, 6-2, Wednesday night at Gaston Park, to capture the 1943 industrial softball championship of New Castle.

For five innings, more than 1,500 persons saw a tug-of-war battle on a diamond. Neither side was willing and didn't give a thing. Then suddenly, the JB found an opening and turned a pitching duel into a lopsided affair.

Score 4 Times

A walk, three costly errors and three timely hits enabled the Bronzers to step on the plate four times in the sixth, thus handing the smooth Norm Bishara his third successive series loss.

The JB aggregation greeted Bishara in the first by garnering an ace. In the third, the UEF matched the one spot. The stymie was in effect until the big sixth.

"Gabby" Kendra, who started the champs on the victory lane by winning the second battle, got the pitching nod again and was as conservative as a ration board, issuing but five well-placed hits. Bob Pascarella, third game winner for the JB, was on the ailing list.

Bishara who for the first time in his career was subdued three times in succession by the same club, got "juggling" support. His mates miscued a half dozen times for some kind of a reverse record.

Copple Stars

Frankie Copple, the hitting star of the five-game classic, came through again, driving in two runs in the sixth frame rally and also sent across the final JB marker. As an added attraction, Copple made one of the most sensational catches of the series, racing far to his right and pulling down DeCaprio's whistling liner in the second with one on.

"Monk" Rainey also contributed a great catch in the sixth for the Bronzers.

Sammy Bullano, the UEF slugger, was blanked for the first time during the series.

Eddie Nahas and Bishara were chief swatsmiths for the losers, the duo getting two hits apiece.

The classic was a marked success from all standpoints. The attendance outdrew, by far, any athletic series staged here this season. High class play and nerve-jarring performances resulted in an exceptionally easy to watch affair.

Personnel Manager Joe Diffley rates a lot of hosannahs for the part he played in the JB triumph. The genial "Diff" injected that winning spirit into a squad that was picked to lose. Joe Bosco, his sidekick, deserves praise for the important role he enacted.

Joe Factor, UEF athletic director and all-around sportsman, helped to organize and stage the series. "Sparky" Morelli assisted factor.

Phils-Trenton Feud Tossed To Landis

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 23.—W. Clifford Case, president of the Trenton club of the Interstate League today had placed his feud with the Phillies before Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis and Judge William G. Branham Minor League head, for consideration.

Case contending that the Phillies made a wholesale raid on his club, asked officials to rule upon the Phils' claim to 14 Packers' players.

The Phillies have a working agreement whereby they give Trenton financial aid "for the right to take any or all players" on the Packers' roster.

Case maintains that President Bill Cox of the Quakers, breached the agreement by taking their best pitcher Dale Mathewson, last July, and failing to furnish promised player help.

Yanks Closer To A. L. Crown, Top Tigers, 4-2

New Yorkers Look Great; Bucs Lose 5-3; Cooper Adds 21st Victory

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—If today's appearances have any bearing on tomorrow's performances, the New York Yankees are going to win the 1943 American League pennant in four sure, easy strides. You would have been convinced of this had you watched the Yankees advance to within four games of the flag yesterday by whipping the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 2, in the first of a four-game series.

The New Yorkers looked great. Hank Borowy served notice he could handle the No. 2 pitching assignment in the coming world series by checking the Tigers with seven hits. His fine twirling was supported in superb fashion by Charlie Keller, who wafted a home run into the right field stands. Charley's homer, his 29th, came in the first inning with two aboard, and gave the Yankees a lead which was never seriously threatened.

Browns-Nats Split

The Washington Senators split a twin-bill with the St. Louis Browns in a twilight-night game yesterday. The Nationals picked up the first game, 4 to 0, and dropped the nightcap, 9 to 1.

The Chicago White Sox hoisted themselves out of the second division into a tie with the Tigers for fourth place by ramming the Philadelphia Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 6 to 0 and 2 to 1. Ed Smith clinched the opener for his comrades by stopping the A's with four hits. Ralph Hodgin's double with two aboard in the ninth inning gave the White Sox the nightcap victory.

It looks as if Mort Cooper will definitely pitch the first game for the St. Louis Cardinals when they invade Yankee Stadium for the series. Mort Hung up his 21st victory with a nine-hit performance against the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were edged out by the Cardinals, 4 to 3.

And it also appears as if Brother Walker Cooper is going to be a mighty tough nut for the Yankees to crack. Walker slugged out four hits yesterday, including a homer and a seventh-inning single that decided the game.

Bucs Blow Lead

The Boston Braves took over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 3, on a double off the bat of Rookie Buck Etchison. The hit was doubly significant, since it came in Etchison's first time at bat in the major leagues, and it sparked a three run rally in the eighth inning that brought victory to the Braves.

The Philadelphia Phillies and the Chicago Cubs divided a twin bill, the Phillies dropping the opener, 5 to 1, and winning the nightcap, 3 to 0.

A three run rally off Kewpie Barrett in the second frame and a two-run uprising in the seixth sewed the game up for the Cubs in the opener, giving Claude Passeau his 15th victory.

The Cincinnati Reds whipped the New York Giants, 4 to 2, in the first game of a twin bill, then dropped the second under a 10 to 4 pummelling. Elmer Riddle chalked up his 20th victory in the opener, while Estel Crabtree slammed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to break a two-all tie.

Even if you don't relish visiting along the river banks and dropping a line, you may enjoy reading contents of a letter penned by William H. Ice, well known local aviator, now with the Air Transport Command of the American Air Lines. From Chicago, Ice describes his first deep sea fishing junket. Here's what he writes:

"A note to tell you what a thrill I had last week. I had a day lay-over on my way to South America in Miami. I went deep sea fishing for the first time with three other captains of the American Air Lines. And low and behold I nabbed a 42-pound sailfish! It was 5 feet 8 inches long. I certainly got quite a thrill landing him. That certainly beats trout and bass fishing in the old Neshannock. It took me 27 minutes to land him . . . .

"I also caught two bonito and two barracuda, which I got in the boat had the last five inches carved off by another barracuda. I also got a thrill in Porto Rico, spearing fish off the rocks with a barb mounted on an eight foot pole. The results were: 6 red snappers and a barracuda. Hoping that fish are biting and that Wayne Sines and Ray Showaiter are not catching 'em all, I am, W. H. Ice, 5400 West 63rd street, Chicago" . . . .

Sam Flora, the New Castle high reserve back who broke his left arm in the Falls setto, has been discharged from treatment in the Jameson Memorial hospital . . . Pitt's Panthers will defeat Notre Dame on Saturday. This is an advanced tip to this desk by Rotund Len Gilbert, the ex-West Sider. He's the same fellow who picked the Phillies before the season started . . . .

Until a better yarn comes around, the story behind a certain All-American gridder is tops. Because the Navy's V-12 program at Wisconsin was jammed and couldn't handle another student, officials queried Northwestern and Notre Dame. Both schools stated they were unable to place the pupil. Michigan was phoned. The Ann Arbor institution reported a crowded condition but promised to make room for one more scholar. The shunted-about trainee was Big "Bill" Daley, Minnesota's All-American last year and who could be the player of the season! . . . .

Jersey City, New York Giant farm, suffered 27 shutouts this season. Were they inspired by the Ottmen? . . . World series records show that King Kong Keller is a money player. In three classics, the outfielder has registered a .333 mark, blasting five homers driving in 16 runs and scoring 15 times . . . Jack Johnson, the 65 year-old ex-heavy champ, wants to fight Joe Louis a 3-round exhibition at any Army camp as a morale lifting gesture . . . .

State-Bucknell Foes Since '87

Clash For 34th Time On State College Gridiron Saturday Afternoon

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 23.—Penn State and Bucknell, football rivals since 1887, will meet Saturday for the 34th time when the Nittany Lions make their 1934 debut on home soil.

The Lions will be seeking their fifth straight victory over the Bisons, having won every engagement since 1939. Bucknell, on the other hand, last won a game in 1938.

Except for the period from 1927 to 1935, the Centre county institution has dominated the series. In that era, Carl Snavely led Bucknell to five victories over the Lions. Penn State leads in the series, however, with 22 victories to 10 for the Lewisburg eleven.

This years, both institutions will field teams heavily buttressed by Navy V-12 material, and the game is expected to be on of the hardest-fought in the series. Oddly enough, neither rival acquired players from the other institution via the Navy.

Agencies Are Given Hunting Applications For Anterless Deer

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—Game commission President Ross L. Leffler announced today that applications for special deer licenses in the eight counties open to antlerless deer hunting this fall are now in the hands of license issuing agencies.

He urged hunters to secure their permits promptly but emphasized that applications may not be accepted prior to October 1. All permits will be issued directly from the commission's offices at Harrisburg.

Counties open to hunting antlerless deer this year on December 13, 14 and 15 are Cameron, Clinton, Lycoming and Tioga, for which 5,000 permits each will be available; McKean and Potter, 15,000 each, and Sullivan and Warren, 2,500 each. Special deer permits cost $1 and a separate fee must accompany each application, Leffler said.

Panther Pilot Picks Irish By 30 Points

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Clark Shaughnessy, T-formation expert who begins his coaching career at Pitt Saturday, said today he expects Notre Dame to whip the Panthers by at least 30 points.

Pacing the Pitt gridmen through their last drills prior to the opening of the season this week-end, Shaughnessy trotted out the crytowel and came up with:

"If Notre Dame doesn't defeat our bunch of 17-year-olds and 4-F's by 30 points then it should go back to South Bend very much ashamed of itself."

The fans, seemingly, were of a different mind. More than 55,000 are expected to turn out at Pitt stadium for the renewal of the bitter rivalry.

Philly Grid Teams Will Hold Up ODT Travel Cut Request

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The Quaker City's collegiate and professional football teams today announced wholehearted support of an Office of Defense Transportation request to restrict sale of tickets to residents of the area in which the game is played.

Spokesmen for the teams also said they would co-operate with an ODT plea to use day coaches instead of pullmans for team trips.

Martin's Homer Wins For Brewers, 8-6; Indianapolis Trips Toledo, 6-3

(International News Service)

The American Association playoff series was all-square today with each of the four competing teams credited with one victory and one defeat.

At Milwaukee, the Brewers, champions of the league, evened the count by defeating the Columbus Redbirds, 8 to 6, on an eighth inning homer by Centerfielder Hershchel Martin with the bases loaded. Pep Young homered with a man on base in the ninth inning for the Birds' final runs.

The Indianapolis Indians likewise evened the series count by pushing over four runs in the first inning to down the Toledo Mudhens, 6 to 3, at the Hoosier capital. The Indians added two more tallies in the eighth frame while Toledo scored two in the second and another in the fifth. Hutchings got credit for the victory.

STRICTLY ILLINOIS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—While Mustafa Eris, junior guard candidate, gives the University of Illinois football squad an international slant, 31 of the 45 men drilling under Coach Ray Eliot are from Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Eddie Bray, halfback from Utica, Eddie McGovern, Rose Poly scoring ace last year, and Chuck Pollard, of Urbana, will handle passing chores for Ray Eliot's 1943 Illini team.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Here we are almost at the end of the month of September . . . just a few more days and old October will be down upon us . . . In those few days that are left in September we American Citizens have a big job to finish . . . the 3rd War Loan. Too many people are sitting back and not buying a bond this month . . . Yes, the income tax returns were just with us and other ideas that take money . . . but you are not GIVING anything when you buy a War Bond . . . you are making money on the government . . . Those lads who lived next door to you and maybe they are your sons are ones that are protecting your investment . . . Don't lag behind. Ellwood City is away over their quota . . . how about New Castle?

If you think this War is over you are badly mistaken . . . guys like yours truly are going to have the opportunity of serving their nation before the final curtain drops . . . The Fathers of the Nation are going to be in there regardless of how some of them might feel . . . It will take more than this present War Loan to put the war on a finish basis . . . let's not let the boys out there today fighting with all they have, DOWN.

"You don't like to put money into the government because you don't like the way they spend it?" . . . Yes we've heard that one before . . . and agree that a great lot of money is wasted . . . wasted right under our very noses . . . but we can't stop putting in now while our stakes are so high . . . Economy will come after the boys come home . . . Remember this waste now when the next time a National election comes up.

* * *

Say . . . how long has it been since Lawrence County has furnished a man for United States Congress? Time we get to thinking about a likely candidate?

* * *

Friday night is football night . . . after the game this week the Red and Black Club is sponsoring a dance at the Castleton Hotel . . . a very nice place for the younger crowd . . . food and dancing and a nice place to sit around.

* * *

The classified ads that run on the page . . . and they really do run . . . are the best buy in town . . . sell, rent and buy this easy way.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23 — One hundred and seventy-five Allegheny county board chairmen and panel members today began trimming the allocation of gasoline on "B" and "C" coupon books by 25 per cent.

As each motorist makes application for renewal of his rations, the boards will make a careful study of his mileage to see where some can be eliminated. The new cut was demanded by the Office of Price Administration.

STOCK MARKET SLIGHTLY LOWER

'Peace' Issues Show Largest Decline Of Around Point This Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—The stock market was lower today after a steady opening, thus bringing its present reaction into its third straight session. Losses ran to around a point in most cases with so-called "peace" issues again leading the decline.

Sales ran at the slowest pace thus far this week.

Air transports, weak yesterday, and mail orders were the main targets. American Air Lines, Pan-American Airways and United Air Lines were all off more than a point at one time. In the mail orders Montgomery Ward dropped almost 3 points on a poor earnings report, while Sears Roebuck was off 1¾ at one time.

A light flury of liquidation in the second hour depressed the motors and steels as much as a point below last night's close. Bethlehem, General Motors, and Chrysler were the chief sufferers.

The rest of the list was generally off fractions.

ARMY SERGEANT TAKES A TUMBLE

(International News Service)

ALEXANDRIA, La.—He didn't receive a scratch, although the bomber in which he was flying had to go much too far with one motor missing. He came through 22 ground strafing and bombing missions by the Japs without a mishap. During 11 months of combat-zone warfare, including flying over the South Pacific with the famed 19th Bombardment Group, he didn't get a wound. But, when Staff Sergt. Thomas Price, of Montpelier, Ind., stepped off an Alexandria curbstone, he fell and suffered an injury that put him in the hospital. Price is the son of Mrs. Margaret Foust, of 1604 John St., Evansville, Ind.

Women are said to make better workers than men in political campaigns, are more practical minded about politics, and adhere strictly to platform pledges.

Bond Sales Triple Quota

Ellwood City's Record Far Ahead Of Any City In State

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 23.—Ellwood City can boast of one of the finest War Bond purchasing records in the state of Pennsylvania after the announcement at yesterday's close of business that $2,515,150.75 worth of bonds had been sold so far in Ellwood City. In practically tripling their quota Ellwood City is carrying Lawrence county to new laurels in the Western Pennsylvania area.

Practically every city in the state is having a hard time meeting their quota and the citizens of the Ellwood City district should feel proud of the splendid record that is again being established here.

Boys in the armed services from this district are proud of the record being established here and from the contents of the letters that are being sent home by boys in the service over seas and here at home there is no better morale builder than to have a home town city 300 percent behind the buying of war bonds.

Six more days remain in the Third War Loan campaign and workers are urged to cover their territory so that every home will have an opportunity to purchase a bond.

In meeting Rochester, Ellwood players will face the leading Beaver Valley scorer to date, Phil Collella. In two games this season, Collella has scored 44 points, and has been picked as the leading player in the valley this year.

Collella & Co. coached by Ernie Myers will be a big hurdle for the Wolverines, and Ellwood's prospects aren't any too good. While Ellwood has topped the Rochester team several times under the Croft regime, they are always one of the hardest teams for Ellwood to defeat.

WOOD PIPE IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK.—To deliver clean water at low cost, an impressive amount of wood pipe is being used in the pulp and paper industry. High-pressure pipe which is always full is saturated with water and is not generally treated, but long lines, or short ones which are alternately full and partially so are being treated with a salts preservative or creosoted in growing volume. Even if cast iron, steel, or other types of pipe were available treated wood pipe would remain in demand because it carries more water, size for size, than other kinds, and its smooth interior surface will not rust, chip, scale, tuberculate corrode or pit. Water in a wood pipe is insulated against temperature change, the water flowing at outside temperatures which would burst a metal pipe.

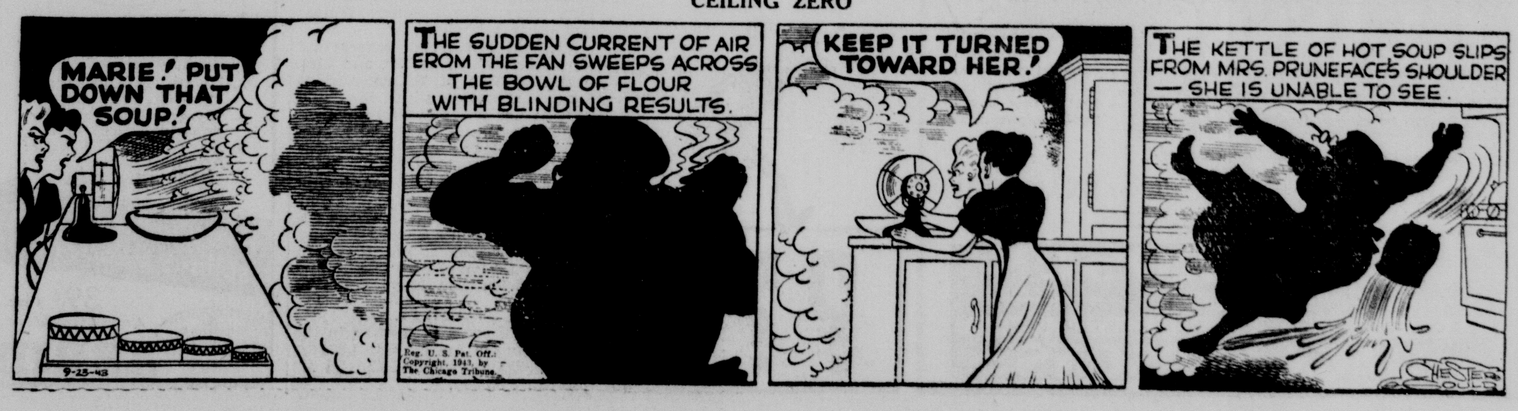
CEILING ZERO



ESTIMATE SIX MONTH'S TOLL OF JAP PLANES 600

By SERGT. HAROLD O. POWELL
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent
Distributed by International News Service

HENDERSON FIELD, Guadalcanal (Delayed)—In a summary of enemy plane losses in the Solomons, from February to August, allied fighter headquarters revealed today conclusive proof of the superiority of American fighter planes and pilots over the Japanese.

Although the exact number of enemy planes shot down during the six-month period was not disclosed, it was estimated by a fighter command spokesman to be well over 600 planes.

Exact American plane losses were not reported either, but the official stated that allied pilots held a better than 4 to 1 advantage. This ratio was based on actual daily records.

Marine Corps pilots were high scorers in the aerial engagements with the Japanese, the official said. They accounted for a third of the enemy aircraft, the majority of which were Zeros. The remainder of the planes were downed by navy Grumman Wildcats, army P-40's and New Zealand fighters.

Increasing allied air strength was indicated by the fact that over three-fourths of the Japanese losses occurred in June and July, which does not take into account planes destroyed on the ground by bombing and strafing.

June proved to be the best month for American pilots. Figures disclosed that 254 Japanese planes were shot down during that time. Weather conditions and the inclination of the Japanese pilots to avoid contact accounted somewhat for the decline in losses for the month of July when only 226 enemy planes were bagged, the official stated.

Time For Mailing Soldiers Mail For Christmas Fleeting

Postmaster Warns That Deadline For Overseas Packages Only Few Weeks Away

Postmaster William R. Hanna warned today that the time for mailing Christmas packages to men in service who are overseas, is fast fleeting away. The deadline is October 15.

Many packages are received which are oversize and overweight, and of course cannot be accepted by the post office authorities.

Packages must not be over 15 inches in length, and 36 inches in length and girth, combined. By girth is meant the distance around the outside of the package, just as one would measure himself around his waist. Packages cannot weigh over five pounds.

Packages for men in the navy, marines, and coast guard, can be sent until November 15.

Bond Window At Post Office Open Saturday Afternoon

Will Be Open To Accommodate Buyers, Postmaster Hanna States

Postmaster William R. Hanna stated today that the bond window at the post office will be kept open until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon for the accommodation of local persons wishing to buy bonds.

This action has been taken because of the fact that banks and other places which sell the bonds will be closed from noon on, and it is expected that a great number of bonds will be sold during this period, thus helping the Third War Loan drive.

Will Tell About Fighting French

Coming Speaker Of Executives Clubs Has Had Contact With French Leaders

Count Byron De Prorok, who has had intimate contact with General DeGaulle, Heile Selassie, Premier Mussolini, General Weygand and others in the North African area, will discuss "The Fighting French in the Present War—and After" at the opening fall dinner meeting of the New Castle Executives club in The Castleton Friday evening, Oct. 1.

The count was born in Mexico in 1896, of Polish-French-Magyar-English ancestry and tells of the thrilling saga of the French who fought on after France fell, of brave officers and men from the Foreign Legion and lowly French farms and villages, who left home and underwent every privation to set up a new and powerful branch of the United Nations armed forces.

AROUND CITY HALL

If the various sanitary sewers in this city were placed end to end they would reach almost to Cleveland. This demonstrates the length of sewer that Director of Improvements James Gibson's employes mush flush before cold weather arrives.

Motorists will be very glad when Highland avenue, North Mill street and East Washington street between Butler avenue and Cascade Park are to be resurfaced by the state. It would have been nice were it possible to resurface all of East Washington street and also the state's end of Long avenue.

Although gas rationing played a big role in recreation and amusement here this summer, considering the saving in gas, Cascade Park enjoyed a good season. On top of this there were few accidents and no disorder of any kind was noted. J. D. Alexander has jurisdiction over the park.

The city is well equipped to fight fires having received a considerable quantity of fire-fighting equipment through OCD channels. Although no one yet knows what will happen to material once the war ends, the belief prevails that the government may dispose of the equipment to municipalities.

Local Ministers Attending Synod

United Presbyterian Group Is Meeting In Buffalo, N. Y., This Week

Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First U. P. church; Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the Second U. P. church; Rev. C. R. Thayer, pastor of the Third U. P. church, and Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of Highland U. P. church, have been in Buffalo, N. Y., where they attended the annual meeting of the United Presbyterian First Synod of the West held there this week.

Actions taken by the group included adoption of a resolution which said in part: "Respect for the Christian Sabbath is disintegrating everywhere. We regret, for example, that many industries require men to work a seven-day week, and that municipalities collect scrap iron on the Lord's Day. Sabbath has even become a favorite time for conducting war bond drives. Buffalo and Pittsburgh recently scheduled bond shows on Sunday evening, featured by the presence of Hollywood stars, and in the case of Pittsburgh, 80,000 spectators were present. The Christian ministry, that night, went begging for the semblance of a crowd. The defiance of the Sabbath was done under the guise of patriotism.

"Dr. R. M. Blackwood, general secretary of the Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania, has written an extended letter to Synod and raises these very issues. We agree with him that the time has come to make our Christian convictions felt. Citizens of Pennsylvania are urged to support the Sabbath Association with prayer and money and all of us are requested to link ourselves with miscellaneous local agencies to bring reform about. It is not that we are unpatriotic; we merely believe that military triumph will be empty if the institutions of Christianity are lost on the march to victory."

Dr. Irvine is retiring moderator of Synod.

Capt. Andreasen Speaks Of Work

Local Salvation Army Leader Tells What Local Chapter Is Doing In War

Capt. Carl Andreasen, head of the New Castle Citadel of the Salvation Army, spoke of the work the Salvation Army is doing in connection with the war, particularly in the local district, at the weekly noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club, in The Castleton Wednesday.

He stated that over the world, in 29 United Nations fronts, the Salvation Army is serving the men and women in service. In Shanghai, they have charge of feeding the homeless.

Locally, the Salvation Army is getting out a weekly news letter which goes to men and women in service all over the world. Since May, the number has grown from 600 to 1,300 letters per week. In return, the Salvation Army gets a great number of letters of thanks in return a few of which he read.

The Salvation Army is ready for various phases of humanitarian work and are prepared for various emergencies. At the recent train disaster north of Philadelphia, the Salvation Army was on the job within an half hour, providing coffee, food, sheets, blankets, etc. They were also on the job at the Kearney, N. J., explosion, rendering a similar service.

The motive back of this great humanitarian work, he asserted is entirely religious, expressing the thought that "God is love" and that the organization lives for humanity's sake.

It was announced that the Kiwanis club will have its annual golf tournament at the Sylvan Heights course on Saturday afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock, with E. Frank Strizzi chairman of arrangements.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME

GROVE CITY, Sept. 23—Fire at the home of Miss Phame Atwell and Miss Clara Becker caused $300 damage, and more serious loss was prevented by Miss Atwell's presence of mind.

Awakened by smoke, Miss Atwell traced it to the bathroom. When she opened the door, she was greeted by smoke and flames. Closing the door to eliminate the draft, she summoned firemen, who soon had the blaze under control. The flames started from a gas stove connection.

Congressman Says Senate Will Not Ban Fathers Draft

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Chairman Andrew J. May (D) Ky., of the house military affairs committee, abandoned hope today of congressional passage of a bill deferring pre-Pearl Harbor fathers from the draft.

May, who himself introduced a bill to defer fathers, based his attitude upon a conviction that the senate will reject the deferment bill of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont.

"We have postponed a meeting of our committee until next Tuesday," May said. "I think the bill will be defeated in the senate, so what is the use of us holding several days hearings?"
